JIM CONLEY WILLING TO MEET DETECTIVE BURNS AT ANY TIME

Negro's Only Condition Is That Some Disinterested White Man Be Present to See He Is Given Fair Treatment

FRANK GRAND JURY MAY HOLD ANOTHER SESSION

Parents of Lula Belle Brown Charge Detectives Tried to Coerce Her Into Saying She Accompanied Mary Phagan to Factory

The declaration of Jim Conley, convicted as an accomplice in the Mary Phagan murder, that he is perfectly willing to see Detective William J. Burns and answer every question put to him, was an unlooked for development in the Frank case Thursday morning.

That Burns will make an effort to interview the negro, who has been so jealously guarded from questioning practically since the day he admitted writing the murder notes, is now almost certain.

Burns is expected to arrive in Atlanta Friday and one of his first moves will probably be an interview with the negro.

That Burns, despite the remarkable powers attributed to him, will secure a confession is not regarded as likely even by the ardent friends of Frank, who are convinced the negro is the real murderer. They believe, however, that the famous detective may, if he talks with the negro, penetrate some weak point in the negro's story, which will cause the whole fabric to collapse.

Conley says he is perfectly willing to see and talk with Burns and that he asks only that some other white man, not a friend of Frank, be present at the interview.

LAWYER MAY OBJECT.

Despite the willingness of the negro to see Burns under his own conditions, it is not improbable that his attorney, William M. Smith, will attempt to prevent an interview.

Mr. Smith did not take a definite stand, but intimated to reporters that the detective would not be given a free rein with the negro.

"I don't propose to stand for any third degree work," said Mr. Smith, "but further than that I can make no statement now. My client must be protected, but I want to do anything that is fair and right in the matter, and I certainly won't say at this time that I will attempt to prevent an interview."

In the opinion of Newport Lanford, chief of the Atlanta detective department, Detective Burns will fail to get results if he does meddle in Jim Conley.

"Conley has told the truth and all the truth," said Chief Lanford Thursday morning. "I don't care what methods Burns uses, he won't get anything more out of the negro than has already been obtained by the men who worked the case."

DETECTIVES ACCUSED.

Charges that city detectives, among them John Black, endeavored to coerce their daughter, Lula Belle Brown, into saying she was the mysterious "girl in the red dress" were made to John Coopwood, an attache of Attorney Reuben R. Arnold's office, in the presence of reporters Thursday afternoon by Mrs. and Mrs. W. S. Jenkins, of West Fourteenth street.

Jenkins and his wife declared detectives came to their home one Sunday and again the following Monday, and interviewed their daughter, who is now in the reformatory at Milledgeville, and whose husband is said to be in the chaingang, and that one of the detectives told the girl he would give her part of his salary if she would swear she was the "girl in the red dress" who was supposed to have gone to the factory with Mary Phagan and to have been told by Frank that she need not wait for Mary, as she would be detained at the factory for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins both declare their daughter told the detectives repeatedly she was not the girl in the red dress, that she did not know either Mary Phagan or Frank and that she had never visited the factory. Nevertheless, they assert, the detectives were insistent in their demands that she say she was the "girl in the red dress."

After the visits Sunday and Monday, they say, the detectives came back Monday night and told the girl that a Mrs. Moody, who lived at 10 East Fourteenth street, had told them Lola Belle was the girl in the red dress. Then they all went to Mrs. Moody's home, according to the story told Thursday, and Mrs. Moody denied ever having made any such

Friday, Thirteenth, To Be All Sunshine, Says Weather Man

Little Wind Expected and Temperature Will Be Warm as Springtime

A fair, fine day is promised to Atlanta for "Friday the Thirteenth" by the weather man, who predicts the passing of the rain and some real spring sunshine.

"It will be a little cooler Friday morning," said the forecaster, "and the mercury will probably drop to about 30 degrees in the early morning, but it will rise during the day, and the weather will get warmer."

There will be little wind, and according to the present indications the remainder of the week should be pleasant. Fair weather prevails all over the country except in the southeastern section.

Hungarian Baron Plans To Write Book Soon on American Impressions

Andon von Coboly, the Hungarian baron and musician who is stopping in Atlanta at the Georgian Terrace, went on a trip of inspection with a party of friends to the federal prison, to play for the prisoners Thursday afternoon.

Baron von Coboly requested Secretary Van Heidt, of the prison, that he be allowed to play the piano for the imprisoned men. Mr. Van Heidt said that he would try to arrange it so that the baron could play for the convicts at dinner time. So the party left the Georgian Terrace in a machine at 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Baron von Coboly is deeply interested in American laws and in our penal systems.

Often he sits beside Judge Ben H. Hill, of the superior court, watching with intense interest the proceedings.

Often, when a prisoner is on trial, the baron calls him aside during the short morning recess of court, and talks to him. The baron asks many searching questions, according to one prisoner, W. P. Grey, who was sentenced to five years Wednesday.

It is understood that Baron von Coboly, true to the habit of visiting foreigners, intends to write a book about his impressions of America. And not the least of these impressions will be those received in Atlanta in watching the workings of the court of criminal procedure and in inspecting the federal prison.

Human Skeleton Proves Civilized Man Dwelt in Africa Many Aeons Ago

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, March 12.—A valuable anthropological discovery in the northern part of German East Africa is reported in the Lokal Anzeiger by Dr. Hans Reick, of the Geological and Palaeontological institute of Berlin university. It is a fossil human skeleton in a magnificent state of preservation.

This is held to prove that "many tens, nay hundreds of thousands of years ago, a highly developed race of men inhabited the African continent."

The remains seem to be of a completeness unusual in such cases. Not only is the skull perfect with all the teeth, but also the entire framework of the body—the thorax, shoulders, pelvis and extremities.

The skeleton is ascribed to the diluvial epoch, but anything like a precise estimation of its age will only be possible after a thorough examination of the remains of extinct animals among which it was found.

Boy's Kite Tangled in Electric Wires Brings Darkness on Atlanta

A kite sent up by boys in the western part of the city Wednesday afternoon, entangled in electric wires, stopped street cars and elevators and shut down all electrically driven machinery and instruments for nearly an hour.

The kite string fell across wires near the Ashby Street school, and this caused the switches at the Davis street plant of the power company to burn out. The burned out switches threw an overload on the side batteries at the Alabama street station, and when these went out the city's "juice" ceased flowing.

Linemen located the trouble in fifteen minutes, and in thirty minutes more the trouble was corrected and traffic resumed.

Circus Elephant, Freed, Leads Mad Chase in South Carolina Woods

HARTSVILLE, S. C., March 12.—A large elephant, which escaped from a circus train said to have been wrecked on the Seaboard Air Line, was killed last night in the woods about six miles from here by a large party of men, who in a long chase used shotguns, rifles and axes in dispatching the animal. Excitement was great and many were the wild, but baseless, rumors of danger done by the beast. An effort was made to have the local militia ordered out to protect the inhabitants from the elephant, which no doubt was merely displaying the exuberance of spirit induced by its new-found liberty. So far as known, no person or property was injured by the late jungle denizen.

ORDERS ISSUED FOR SEVENTEENTH TO GO TO MEXICAN BORDER

Regiment Will Leave for Patrol Duty on Boundary as Soon as Transportation Facilities Are Arranged

WILL GUARD AGAINST RAIDS BY MEXICANS

Adjutant General Announces Colonel McIver Will Soon Take Command, Succeeding Colonel Van Orsdale

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The Seventeenth infantry, now stationed at Fort McPherson, will proceed to the Mexican border just as soon as transportation facilities can be arranged, declared Adjutant General George Andrews this morning. "The order has been issued, and the regiment will get under way when the railroads have the cars ready to move the troops."

The adjutant general explained that the vacancy in the line occasioned by the retirement of General John T. Van Orsdale would be filled by the promotion of Lieutenant Colonel George W. McIver, who is now stationed at Manila, in the adjutant general's department.

"It has not been decided definitely who will succeed immediately to the command of the Seventeenth infantry, however," added General Andrews.

It may be, he said, that Lieutenant Colonel McIver, on reaching the United States, will be assigned to command the Seventeenth, or it may be that the colonel of some other regiment will be ordered to join the Seventeenth at the Mexican border and assume command.

The Seventeenth and Ninth regiments were ordered to the border by Secretary Garrison after a conference with President Wilson yesterday afternoon. It is understood that the representations of Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, impelled the president to direct that the troops be sent to the border. Senator Sheppard earlier in the day told the president that Americans along the Mexican border are apprehensive over conditions.

NOTICE TO COLQUIT.

The action of the president is regarded by some as a notice to Gomez-Colquit, of Texas, that the forces of the federal government will be employed to prevent any attempt on the part of armed Texans to cross the international boundary with hostile intent.

Representations made to the president Monday by Congressman Garner, of Texas, had something to do with today's action, it was said today. Mr. Garner told the president he had messages showing the consternation that were active on the American side opposite Brownsville, and it was feared that might cross the border and commit depredations. The same fear was entertained at Laredo and Eagle Pass, and for border in the vicinity of these towns, federal troops were active, it was said. The governors wanted protection from possible raids and points where the patrol stations were few and far between. The governors, but and a secretary Garrison had before them all the information in the possession of the state department in regard to the alleged "raid" across the international boundary last Saturday night. Secretary Garrison had also the report of the investigation made by order of General Bliss, commanding the southern military department, which gave substantially the facts as therefore published in newspaper accounts.

The inefficiency of the present boundary situation appears from the fact that according to military reports, at the time of the "raid" to get Vergara's body there were only seven troopers covering the distance of five miles from the point, where the body was brought across the boundary to the ranch where Consul Garrett and Captain Saunders, of the Texas Rangers, were speedily informed. These cavalrymen had no knowledge of the "raid" until several hours after it occurred.

TO RELIEVE CAVALRY.

The two fresh regiments will be assigned to garrison duty at Eagle Pass and Laredo. It is explained that they will take the place of the cavalry detachments at those places, thus freeing them of garrison duty and making them available for active patrol duty along the Rio Grande.

These two regiments detailed to the border have about 825 men each, and on their arrival the total number of troops engaged in patrolling the Mexican border will be about 6,500. In addition there are about 12,000 troops concentrated at Galveston and Texas City, organized as a division.

Secretary Garrison's official announcement of the detailing of the additional troops was as follows:

"To allay as far as possible the fears of the people on the border the president took up with me the question of sending some additional troops there. As a result I have ordered that the Seventeenth and the Ninth infantry be sent to the border. The Seventeenth is now at Fort McPherson, Georgia, and the Ninth infantry is now at Fort Logan H. Roots, Arkansas, and Fort Thomas, Kentucky. They will be stationed at present at Eagle Pass and Laredo and the cavalry now at those places will then be relieved for more extended border work."

Gen. Evans' Aides Leave For Governor's Island

Following the news from Washington that the Seventeenth infantry would soon be ordered to the Mexican frontier, Lieutenants Albert S. J. Tucker and Hornsby Evans, aides of Brigadier General Robert L. Evans, have joined their commanding officer at the department of the east, Governors Island, N. Y., where he is in temporary charge. They were accompanied by the general's wife, Mrs. Evans.

Though no orders have been received in Atlanta bearing on the situation, Fort McPherson is all a-flutter with excitement, and officers and enlisted men alike are expecting momentarily the news from the war department.

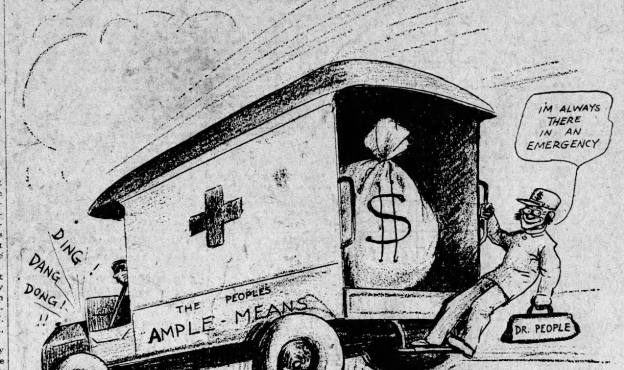
ONLY $7,715 IS NEEDED FOR WESLEY HOSPITAL

A HURRY CALL!



WORKERS REPORT AMOUNT OF $2,151 PLEDGED THURSDAY

Total Collected Up to Date by Various Committees of Women Is $17,248.85—Subscriptions Come Fast

ONLY TWO MORE DAYS OF CAMPAIGN REMAIN

Final Meeting of Committees Will Be Held Saturday Night in Wesley Memorial Church for Receiving Reports

Just $7,715.15 of that $25,000 fund for Wesley Memorial hospital remained to be collected Thursday when the reports were filed at the noon meeting of the women campaigners in the Hotel Winecoff.

Here is the report given out after that meeting:

Already reported.....$15,097.85
Reported Thursday.....2,151.00

Total to date.....$17,248.85

It was remarkable that notwithstanding the rain Thursday afternoon, which made it difficult for the ladies to get about in their canvassing, Thursday's report was just $1.45 less than Wednesday's, which was $2,152.45.

Mrs. John A. Miller, treasurer of the campaign, added $900 to her former subscription of $100 Thursday, making the total of her gift $1,000. This will dedicate a memorial room. She was showered with congratulations when the additional contribution was announced by Grace church committee.

Another highly appreciated gift Thursday was $2 from Mrs. John F. Barclay, widow of the Atlanta philanthropist who gave his all to charity. Mrs. Barclay is now in the Home for Incurables. From there she sent her contribution, with the message: "I just must have my name in this great work."

Two days of the week remain. In that period the ladies are determined to complete the $25,000 with which Asa G. Candler is to match $75,000 as the cash is deposited in bank.

REPORTS TO BE HEARD.

At 11 o'clock Friday and again at 11 o'clock Saturday the central committee will meet and receive reports. The meetings on those days will be held in the ball room of the Winecoff hotel.

Saturday evening at 8 o'clock the final meeting of the week will be held in Wesley Memorial church to receive the reports from the canvassing of Saturday afternoon. All committee members will be expected to attend that meeting.

A special collection for Wesley Memorial will be taken in St. Mark's church Sunday morning by Dr. A. M. Hughlett. Dr. Hughlett has been one of the most interested workers in the campaign, assisting in every way the committee from his church. He suggests that every Methodist pastor in the city take a similar collection Sunday morning.

Mrs. Henry H. Tucker, chairman of the ways and means committee, was authorized to appoint a committee to wait on council next week and ask for an appropriation from the city for the hospital. Whatever the city gives will be in addition to the total set for the campaign, and also will be asked for an appropriation.

In the publication of Wednesday's report, Mr. McDonnell gave $50 as giving 50 cents. That was a typographical error. Mr. McDonnell gave $50, through the First church committee.

H. S. Harper giving $100, and R. C. Darby, $125, were other substantial contributors Thursday. Both gave through St. Mark's committee.

Following are Thursday's reports by committees:

MISS ELEANOR WILSON TO WED MR. M'ADOO?

Persistent Rumors Say Ceremony Will Be Performed in June

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Prospects of another White House wedding became more definite today with the persistent renewal of the report that Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Miss Eleanor Wilson, youngest daughter of the president and Mrs. Wilson, were engaged, the marriage to take place in June.

There was no announcement from the White House, and when the attention of officials was drawn to the report they refrained from making any comment or denial.

Secretary McAdoo himself said it would be indelicate for him to comment on the subject one way or the other. Nevertheless, official Washington is taking it as a definite fact that another wedding at the White House will be solemnized in June after the adjournment of congress.

Many persons who know Secretary McAdoo were surprised at the report because he has been a frequent social visitor at the White House during the last year.

Mr. McAdoo is fifty years old, while Miss Wilson is twenty-four. He is a widower and has six children, one son and one daughter being married.

Mr. McAdoo, who is the builder of the Hudson tunnels, knew the Wilson family before his entry into the cabinet and has been an intimate friend of the president since early in the preconvention campaign.

CAMPAIGN FOR WESLEY WINS ATLANTA'S HELP: HAVE YOU GIVEN YET?

This Wesley Memorial campaign meets Atlanta's approval.

The folks are giving readily—some big amounts, some little, but something from everybody.

There is an inspiration about it that opens the hearts of the people to its appeal. The first thought—a charity—reveals an opportunity that many have been groping for. It is the opportunity to do good that will live after us when we are dead. The second thought—Atlanta's good name—attracts other givers by enthusing them with the idea of a southern Johns Hopkins in Atlanta.

About a year ago a nine-year-old boy from South Carolina was received at Wesley Memorial hospital for treatment. He was a charity patient. Little could be done for him and he was sent back home to die. Then he made his will. During the several months he spent in the hospital, people had given him nickels and dimes. He had saved these, and he added others after he got back home. Their total had grown to $12.50 when he died. He left that sum and his billy-goat and wagon to Wesley Memorial hospital. It was the first bequest the hospital ever received.

Human interest? Why, Wesley Memorial is rich with it! There is the man who never had seen his children, to whom sight was restored after they had grown up and married. There are the children of twisted limbs, whose bones are broken by strong hands in order that they may heal straight. There are the mountain mothers, worn to shadows by toil and suffering, to whom health and strength are returned at Wesley.

You who can afford to give, may think of Wesley from the standpoint of a pay-patient. Why is it necessary to give? you ask. A hospital's a business proposition

You forget the other side of it—that Wesley does a great charity; that the net revenue from a pay-patient helps to support a charity patient.

Nobody makes anything out of Wesley. It is not operated for gain.

It offers a worthy foundation for that southern Johns Hopkins we've got in mind.

Only $10,000 remains to be raised, of the $25,000 the women want from us.

Let's give that before Sunday, Atlanta!

OUTLAW FARMER IS SENT TO JAIL FOR LONG TERM

Edward Beardsley Assaulted Poor Overseer and Defied Authorities Eight Days

(By Associated Press.)

MAYVILLE, Ky., March 12.—Edward Beardsley, the Summerdale outlaw farmer, charged with assault on W. Putnam, county overseer of the poor of Columbiana county, was found "guilty as charged" today. The jury was out six minutes.

Beardsley shot the officer when the latter entered his home to remove his children from their squalid surroundings. He then barricaded himself and defied the authorities for eight days.

Beardsley was sentenced to serve not more than nine years and six months in Auburn prison.

MRS. ARTHUR A. DEVLIN IS DEAD IN CHICAGO

Atlanta friends of Mrs. Arthur A. Devlin were grieved Thursday to learn of her death which occurred Wednesday afternoon in Chicago, where she has been ill with pneumonia for several weeks.

Telegrams were received Thursday morning containing the news of her death, but nothing definite has been arranged in regard to the funeral.

Mrs. Devlin's home was in Atlanta and she was a prominent member of the social set. She lived at 62 Westminster drive, in Ansley Park. She is survived by her husband and one son, and her brother, Ted Hesiman.

COTTON AND GRAIN TRADE PROBE FORESHADOWED

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Congressional investigation of trading in futures of cotton and grain was foreshadowed today when the house rules committee appointed a subcommittee to draft a resolution for such action.

A Correction

The attention of The Journal has been called to an unintentional error which appeared in a news item published in its columns on March 1 relative to police court cases having been made against the proprietors of certain moving picture theaters.

In that news story C. P. Bailey, proprietor of the theater at 81 Decatur street, was referred to as a colored person. This was an error, which is, of course greatly regretted by this paper. The Journal did not learn of the error until today, and takes the first opportunity to make this correction.

ASKS FOR DIVORCE FROM 'BAG OF SKIN AND BONES'

Says Hubby Has Been Arrested So Often Cop Has Become Her Friend

Declaring that her husband, Rufus Dana Chaffin, from whom she has already secured one decree of divorce, and alimony, is "nothing but a bag of skin and bones," Mrs. Jennie Pearl Chaffin several times interrupted her testimony Thursday afternoon at the hearing for a second decree to call her husband "a lunatic" and to predict that he would "land in the asylum soon if he doesn't cut out whiskey."

Mrs. Chaffin's recital of her marital troubles kept the court room greatly interested during the morning. She said she had had her husband arrested time and time again because he insisted on coming out to see their three-year-old daughter, Katharine, who was awarded to the mother when the first verdict was secured, and once, she said, she had to have him arrested because he followed her to a friend's house and told her that he objected to being treated "like a pseudo dog."

Mrs. Chaffin said that she and the policeman who arrests her husband have become quite good friends because she has to call him to her aid so often and that she has taught her daughter to love all policemen because they are so nice and helpful.

REBELS TO DISTRIBUTE LANDS IN MEXICO

Those Who Have Suffered in Wars to Have First Consideration

CHIHUAHUA, March 12.—The military government today issued a decree of distribution of public lands among soldiers of the present revolution, disabled veterans of the Madero revolt and widows and orphans of two rebellions.

In advance of a survey by engineers it is estimated that each beneficiary will receive a farm of sixty-two acres. The decree safeguards the gifts with provisions that they shall not be subject to execution for debt nor can the owner sell the same within ten years.

While those who have suffered in the wars will be given the first say in the distribution, civilians have a right to apply.

The decree provides that no person with resources equal to one of these farms shall participate in the benefits of the plan. Should an owner of a farm fall heir to another he must dispose of it within one year.

There also will be a distribution of town lots.

The decree excited great interest here as it is the first attempt to apply the rebels' plan for solving the land problem.

Two comissioners from General Contreras, who is at the head of the rebel forces at Parlecena, state of Durango, conferred with General Villa today about the Torreon campaign. They said the federal garrison of Torreon numbers about 7,000 men and that the place is surrounded by rebel forces. It has no connection with the outside world, they reported.

COMMISSION WILL PROBE PHONE RATES

Proposed Raising of Rates in Columbus Original Cause of Investigation

An exhaustive investigation into the subject of telephone rates in Georgia will be made for the first time by the state railroad commission as a result of the complaint filed by the city of Columbus against the announced intention of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company to raise telephone rates in Columbus.

A hearing upon the protest of the city of Columbus is now in progress before the commission. This hearing began Wednesday morning and bids fair to continue for a day or two longer. The telephone company is represented at the hearing by a number of its officials and experts and the city of Columbus is presenting its complaint through its attorneys and experts.

It will probably be several weeks before the commission decides this case and in the meantime it will collect data and information upon the general subject of telephone rates and the basis for same.

ment that will send them to the border.

Major George W. Martin, now in command of the Seventeenth, stated to a Journal reporter Thursday morning that he expected formal orders on any mail to proceed either today or Friday. He said further that he felt practically certain that his regiment would soon be on its way west via Savannah, by transport to Galveston, Tex., and thence by rail to their destination.

Colonel J. T. Van Orsdale, commander of the Seventeenth, celebrated his sixty-fourth birthday Thursday, and having reached the age limit he will retire from active service. Colonel Van Orsdale is at St. Augustine, Fla., where he has been on leave of absence since the first of February.

Major Martin said the regiment could entrain and be ready to leave within six hours after receipt of orders. There are 1,009 men attached to the regiment. All of those with the exception of a guard of about twenty-five men, will go to the border if orders are received.

All field equipment, including horses, will be taken along. The guard to be left behind will look after the post property.

The Washington dispatches do not state just where the Seventeenth is to go. They simply say that this regiment, with the Ninth infantry, will be ordered to proceed to Laredo and Eagle Pass to strengthen the border patrol.

In 1911 the Seventeenth spent eight months doing border patrol duty. At that time it was stationed near San Antonio, Tex.

It is not known who will succeed Colonel Van Orsdale as commander of the Seventeenth, but many regular army officers are of the opinion that it will be Colonel George W. McIver, now adjutant general in the Philippines.

CHILDREN MARCH FROM BLAZING SCHOOL HOUSE

(By Associated Press.)

BALTIMORE, Md., March 12.—One thousand pupils of a public school were marched from the building in good order by their teachers here today when fire, which originated in the cellar, was making rapid progress through the structure. The building was destroyed.

In the flight from the building the first to receive the attention of the teachers were a number of crippled children. They were carried out.

Though the pupils displayed rare courage, many of the girls collapsed when the street was reached. The report that the school building was on fire spread quickly and soon hundreds of anxious mothers, many of them hysterical, were on their way to the scene. They were quickly reassured that all had escaped.

CONDEMN ARMED MEN IN COPPER MINE STRIKE

Chairman of House Committee Says Miners Have Right to Belong to Union

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The house committee investigating conditions in the Michigan copper strike area returned here today, and members indicated that their report would denounce the mine owners for refusing to allow their men to return to work without renouncing their unions.

Chairman Taylor condemned the use of armed men from outside the state at the instance of the mine owners, and pictured a miserable condition of men on strike. He announced that the committee would later obtain further evidence from the books of the Calumet-Hecla company at Boston, giving a hearing to John Mitchell, the labor leader, and probably present a report to the house by May 1.

"The companies," said Chairman Taylor, "have the right not to recognize the union, and the men have the right to belong to a union. It is an un-American proposition to deny a man the right to belong to some organization. The Western Federation of Miners is distinctly a metalliferous organization, and the strikers could belong to no other such organization, and a denial of their right to its membership means denial of their right to belong to any union. The Citizens' Alliance, the organization of citizens, is working along this line of driving the Western Federation of Miners off the map."

Chairman Taylor scored the agencies which brought mine guards in the strike territory, and declared the investigating committee would agree in recommending to congress a federal law to prohibit corporations from shipping armed men from one state to another. "This," he said, "will be on the ground that they were trouble-makers."

SIEGEL'S STORES ARE CLOSED IN NEW YORK

Court Refuses to Allow Stores of Indicted Corporation, Men to Continue Business

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 12.—Orders closing the two big New York department stores operated by Henry Siegel and his partners were issued today by the federal court.

Judge Hough directed that the receivers, appointed December 30, when the Siegel enterprises went into bankruptcy, receive bids up to March 21 for the stock and assets of these stores.

The Fourteenth street store and the Simpson Crawford store, among the largest in the city, were the ones affected by the court order. When the receivership began they were allowed to remain open and offers were made to reorganize them without interrupting business, in the hope that the creditors would reap the best advantage by this method.

The two orders were granted today upon application of the receivers and creditors.

What the district attorney described as "material for at least 50 indictments" alleging fraud against Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel, president and vice president, respectively, of the Siegel Stores corporation, who were arrested yesterday on three indictments and are now at liberty under $25,000 bail each, was placed in the hands of the grand jury today.

Assistant District Attorney Arthur C. Train said that as many indictments as the ends of justice seemed to require would be found against the merchant-bankers.

Those already found charge violation of the banking laws and grand larceny in making false statements to obtain credit. The grand larceny indictment is based only on the affairs of the Fourteenth street store of this city and the Henry Siegel & Co. private bank, conducted in connection with it.

"The affairs of the Fourteenth street store," said the indictment, "are typical of the affairs of other Siegel enterprises."

Conviction on the indictment charging violation of the banking laws in that Siegel and Vogel accepted deposits when they knew the bank to be insolvent, is punishable with a term of from one to five years' imprisonment and a fine of $5,000. For the grand larceny charge the men may be sentenced to ten years in prison and fined $10,000.

District Attorney Whitman said the grand larceny indictment was based on the statements of two secretaries employed by Siegel. They testified that false statements were prepared for merchants and bankers that liabilities were turned into assets and that approximately $2,500,000 of money deposited in the Siegel private bank was placed into the retail business while it was losing money.

Additional indictments alleging that the two men accepted deposits when they knew the bank to be insolvent will be based on testimony of individual depositors. Every deposit accepted by the bank for a period of over a year, it is claimed, can be made the basis of a separate indictment. It will take several days for the grand jury to go over the material at hand.

statement. Jenkins and his wife both assert the detectives were overbearing and threatening in manner and said they had good grounds for locking the girl up. Their statement was taken down by John Cox for the detectives, but whether it will be used as a part of the evidence on which an extraordinary motion for a new trial will be made is not known.

That the grand jury which last May indicted Leo M. Frank for the murder of Mary Phagan may be informally called together to discuss certain matters incident to the returning of the true bill against Frank was reported Thursday.

At the same time L. H. Beck, foreman of the jury, stated he had not been requested by any member to take such a step and that he could not say at the present time what he would do if the request is made of him.

PRESSED FOR $10,000 REWARD.

The claims committee of the city council Wednesday afternoon heard Attorney Lawton Nally contend in a long argument that R. P. Barrett, who found blood stains and hair on the second floor of the pencil factory, is entitled to the $1,000 reward offered by the city for evidence to convict the murderer of Mary Phagan.

No decision will be made by the council probably until the extraordinary motion for a new trial for Leo M. Frank has been filed and passed on by the courts. The sentiment among the members of the council committee, however, is that the finding of the blood spots and hair was not definite or positive proof against Frank.

An interesting feature of the claims committee hearing was the testimony of Detective John Starnes, one of the prosecutors of Frank.

Starnes declared Frank was suspected of the murder long before Barrett found the blood and hair, which was on Monday following the crime on Saturday.

He said, however, that the evidence unearthed by Barrett was material in establishing that the murder was committed on the second floor of the factory.

The prosecution of Frank relied largely on the testimony of Conley to convict Frank. Detective Starnes admitted in replying to questions of Councilman Jesse Wood.

Edmondson Says Accuser Is a Pusillanimous Liar

E. B. Edmondson, the LaGrange constable, who is alleged to have located a new witness in the Leo M. Frank case, denounces in no uncertain terms a preacher from his home town who attacked him in a letter to Solicitor General Dorsey.

The letter of the preacher was made public by the solictor's office, but the writer's name was withheld.

Edmondson not only denies every charge made against him, but characterizes the preacher as a pusillanimous liar, and urges him to come out like a man and make his name public.

Edmondson declares emphatically that there are any charges pending against him in Troupe or any other county, and says that anything he used the information in his possession in an effort to extort money from the Frank defense is a lie.

SUITS GROWING OUT OF FACTORY FIRE SETTLED

NEW YORK, March 12.—Twenty-three suits, begun by persons whose relatives were among the 148 killed in the Triangle Shirt Waist Factory fire and by persons who were injured, were settled yesterday so far as the owner of the building was concerned, by the payment of $75 in each case by the company that carried the accident insurance for the owner. Suits against the firm that rented the building may yet be instituted.

It was said the settlement was made because it did not appear that the suits against the owner of the building would be successful.

Breathe Through The Nose

Nose breathing is essential to good health. Drawing the air through the nose warms it, strains out the dust and presents it to the lungs in a fit state, guarding the lungs against chilling and the bad effects of dirt. The lungs need plenty of fresh air every day, to properly oxidize the blood. Plenty of oxygen in the blood burns out the dross and renders it ready for excretion. Then with the proper laxative health can be easily maintained.

Tonic-Laxative

Next to fresh air is the importance of regular bowels. In all cases of sluggish bowels a tonic laxative should be used. To combine tonic qualities with a laxative is the latest achievement in medical science. Laxatives naturally depress. The tonic element removes that objection. Peruna should be in every household because it fulfills every quality to make it an effective tonic laxative. Many people who have used Peruna are able to say truthfully, "I am now enjoying perfect health."

DR. WILMER COMMENDS THE JOURNAL'S ATTITUDE

Rector of St. Lukes Church Thinks Leo Frank Should Be Given New Trial

Rev. Dr. C. B. Wilmer, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, Atlanta, has addressed a letter to The Journal commending its editorial of last Tuesday urging that Leo M. Frank be given a new trial. The letter follows:

To the Editor of The Journal.

Dear Sir: I beg to congratulate you on your editorial in Monday's Journal headed, "Frank Should Have a New Trial." I am only a man, but I believe that everybody who feels about the matter as I do should come out and say so.

I have not arrived at this double conclusion, that Frank should have a new trial and that those who think so should say so publicly, without giving thought to a very serious phase of the matter on the other side, viz., the danger and wrong, in general, of saying or doing anything that can tend to weaken the confidence of the public in our courts. I do not mean to reflect on the jury that convicted Frank. To the best of my information and belief they were honest in their verdict and not consciously swayed by hostile public opinion. I am not questioning the correctness of the conclusion at which they arrived. It may be that this same conclusion would be arrived at by any honest and intelligent jury listening to all the evidence and viewing it in the "dry light of reason." Nevertheless, the question remains: Ought Atlanta to stand for a trial conducted under the conditions surrounding this trial and which you so vividly picture? On this question, Atlanta herself is on trial before the bar of enlightened public opinion all over the country and, perhaps all over the civilized world.

I know, of course, that our supreme court has passed on the question of a new trial and refused it, although not unanimously. It is not in conflict with our duty to respect this decision, to say that it was a legal decision and that legal decisions, that is, on points of law, do not always go to the bottom of the moral questions involved, or even profess to do so. Looking at the matter, then, from the moral point of view, it seems to me that there should be a trial of this case conducted in what one might call a more judicial atmosphere; especially in view of the fact that the trial Judge himself was not convinced either way.

Furthermore, the very strong pressure of public opinion, or the opinion of at least a portion of the public, having been brought to bear against Frank, is not the opinion of those who are in doubt as to the guilt of the accused in this case entitled to be heard, and the conviction of those who thoroughly disapprove of the conditions under which an adverse verdict was arrived at?

Then there is another reason in favor of a new trial, which I beg to mention without at all desiring to argue the case. To mention but one thing, I refer to the point made by Mr. Alexander in his pamphlet analyzing the note written admittedly by Conley, that it is exceedingly improbable that this note so full of negro superstition should have been dictated by a white man. This point was not brought to the attention of the jury and is certainly worth considering.

Finally, the moral value of an execution must depend in great measure, in these democratic days, on the satisfaction of the public mind with the justice of the verdict of guilty. For all these reasons I beg to join with you in expressing the wish that some way might be found for a new trial of the accused in this case. As you so well point out, if guilty, he can be found guilty again and under circumstances to carry along with that decision the concurrence of at least the acquiescence of the whole public; if innocent he can be acquitted and judicial murder be prevented.

In the meantime, Mr. Editor, you have rendered a public service by bravely calling attention to certain things in connection with the trial that were not right, and in so doing you have given an illustration of what is possible for journalism when it sets itself to be more like the pole star and less like a weather vane.

Yours truly,
C. B. WILMER.

MRS. W. MOORE DIED AT HER HOME TODAY

One of Atlanta's Oldest and Most Prominent Residents Succumbs to Paralysis

Mrs. William A. Moore, one of Atlanta's oldest and most beloved women, died Thursday afternoon at 12:35 o'clock at her home, 350 Peachtree street. She had been ill about a month, never recovering from a stroke of paralysis which she suffered on February 3, just the day before her eighty-second birthday. For two weeks prior to her death she had been unconscious.

She was the wife of William A. Moore, of the old firm of Moore & Marsh, a wholesale dry goods house, which was established here just after the war. He was prominently identified with the business and philanthropic life of the city, and the Moore Memorial church was named for him.

Mrs. Moore was a devout Christian, whose church and charitable work engaged much of her time. Up until the day she was stricken with paralysis she was an active member of the First Presbyterian church, and she was interested in all charitable movements, particularly in the Nacoochee Valley school for Mountain Boys and Girls. She was a member of the Pioneer society and of "The Butterflies," a club composed of a number of the older women of the city.

She was born in Mecklinburg, N. C., her father being Dr. A. L. Barry. When she was a child she moved to LaFayette, Ga., and there she was raised. She came to Atlanta just after the war, and has since resided here.

She is survived by her son, Wilmer L. Moore, former president of the Atlanta chamber of commerce, and by two daughters, Mrs. Hugh L. McKee, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Seaborn Wright, of Rome.

One brother, Robert Barry; one sister, Mrs. Mollie Fowler, of Texas, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John N. Moore, also survive her, as well as many grandchildren. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Members of the big company of innumerable artists have been invited to attend and the event promises to be one of the most attractive features put on by the Piedmont since the nightly dances commenced.

Aside from an interpretation of all of the new dances by Miss Wheaton and Mr. Murray, members of the "Follies" company will be seen on the floor.

Reservations for tables can be made by application to Acting Manager R. Frank Taylor, Steward Edward R. J. Fischel or at the office.

POLICE BOARD DEADLOCK MAY RUN INDEFINITELY

Neither Fain, Pace Nor Vernoy Has Showed the Slightest Sign of a Compromise

The board of police commissioners faces the prospect of an indefinite deadlock over the election of a chairman, and so long as the board is deadlocked Mayor Woodward will preside over the board and exercise all the regular authority of chairman.

The five supporters of W. P. Fain say they are definitely committed to vote for him so long as he is a candidate. Their votes, together with Mr. Fain's vote, give him a total of six, which is enough to prevent the election of anyone else but lacks one of being enough to elect him.

Mr. Fain tells his friends he is in the race to the finish and will stick out the whole year if necessary. He expects his supporters to stay with him so long as he is a candidate. They apparently have no intention of doing otherwise.

Equally determined are the four votes of Robert T. Pace—his own being one of the four. He and his supporters are unwilling to vote for Fain and unwilling to vote for W. A. Vernoy. They are hoping that Vernoy and C. R. Garner will come over to him, rather than go to Fain.

And Vernoy, willie he has only his vote and the vote of Garner, believes he has an ultimate chance of being elected chairman. He and his friends believe the votes of Fain will switch to him before they will to Pace, and in this they appear to be correct. Fain's friends indicate as much.

The Pace supporters would be willing to support Vernoy for vice chairman of the board provided Vernoy and Garner would support Pace for chairman. Of course, even if they had Vernoy and Garner they would still lack one of having the majority necessary to elect, but they believe if they could muster six votes for Pace, combined with Mayor Woodward's advantageous position as acting chairman, they could eventually bring over a vote from the Fain ranks. Mayor Woodward is supporting Pace.

Vernoy is not ambitious to be vice chairman of the board, as his term expires next March and he will not stand for re-election. Thus with only one more year to serve, he must be elected chairman or not at all. He indicates, however that he will go to Pace before he will go to Fain.

The race for alderman in the First ward—for the place made vacant by John H. Harwell's death—may cut some figure in the police board chairmanship. Councilman Sam Shepard and Councilman Orville Hall, of the Third ward, want Vernoy elected chairman of the police board. Their votes may be needed to elect J. R. Seawright alderman, and the crowd supporting Seawright is the same that is supporting Pace.

Mayor Woodward said Thursday that he wants the people to understand the deadlock over the chairmanship of the police board will in no way hamper the regular operation of the police department. The rules of the board simply provide that the mayor shall act as chairman while the board is electing a permanent chairman.

Forget Your Stomach

Anyone in perfect health never "feels" at the stomach. It's forgotten like any other part of a perfect running machine. No jar, no shock, no sensations at all; just easy, pleasant, restful work—duty well done.

The Way

lies in the proper selection of food and drink, getting down to Nature's principles—plenty of fresh air, good water, and particularly plenty of good food that will easily digest, and nourish and rebuild—not clog up.

Understanding how the body works upon food and what elements it requires to rebuild itself, this knowledge was used to produce the perfect food—

Grape-Nuts

It contains the natural Phosphate of Potash which the life forces especially require for rebuilding bone, muscle, brain and nerves.

Then again, in Grape-Nuts a part of the starch of the wheat and barley has been changed into sugar by the baking at the factory. That is exactly the condition which starchy food—bread, oatmeal, potatoes, etc., assumes in the act of natural digestion. So we find Grape-Nuts has passed through this process outside the body, and is therefore partially predigested—a tremendous help for those who are a bit weak in digestive power. And so

IF BACK HURTS USE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if Kidneys feel like lead or Bladder bothers

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

KNIGHT SAYS WIFE MADE THREAT TO HARM CHILD

Declares Woman Said She Would Kill It Unless Given Possession

Sitting in his cell at police headquarters Thursday morning, Dewitt Knight, of Macon, Ga., charged by his wife with trying to ruin her beauty by throwing carbolic acid in her face, told another story to reporters of why he came to Atlanta.

According to the prisoner, who claims that his wife's face was burned when he knocked a glass of carbolic acid from her hand as she was in the act of swallowing it, his visit here was primarily to warn Judge Tindall, of the children's court, that Mrs. Knight had threatened to kill their little girl, Thelma, unless she could secure her from the Home of the Friendless.

Knight claimed that his wife had made the threat before him that she would have her little girl or take the child's life in the attempt. He feared for the safety of Thelma, he said, and lost no time in getting here in an effort to protect her. He had not had time, he declared, to see Judge Tindall, when he found his wife in her room in the act of committing suicide by taking acid, which he dashed from her hands.

"I am done with the woman," declared Knight. "She has no basis for her accusations against me. I tried to save her life." Knight expressed the belief that his lawyers would soon secure his release from custody through a writ of habeas corpus.

MOTHER STANDS BY KNIGHT.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. G. B. Knight, mother of the accused man, and his sister visited the disfigured woman at Grady hospital. Fearing some outburst among the three women, hospital officials declined to allow the visit to Mrs. Knight until an officer had been sent to accompany them to the ward where the son's wife lay.

To her mother-in-law and sister-in-law Mrs. Knight reiterated her original story of how her husband tried to disfigure her with the acid. Knight's mother and sister both expressed their belief in his innocence, and Mrs. Knight declared that her son's wife was lying to her and all to whom she had made the sensational charges. It was a fact, she said, that the woman's story changed every time it was told.

The mother declared her intention to stick by Knight and help him out of the present difficulty. "He is absolutely innocent," she said. "My son could not do such a thing."

The burned wife is reported steadily improving from the effects of the acid.

PARDONED BY GOVERNOR, IS HELD FOR CRACKING SAFE

Young Man Recently Freed Said to Have Helped Rob Safe in Milledgeville

Will Knight, a young man recently pardoned by Governor Slaton, after serving a few months of a five years' sentence for cracking the safe of Randall Brown coal yard at Marietta street and North avenue, has been arrested in Wilmington, Del., and the sheriff of Baldwin county has gone to bring him back to Georgia. He is wanted on the charge of robbing a grocer's safe in Milledgeville of $25,000 on February 15.

Knight's arrest followed information given to the police of Atlanta by Miss Cochran, of 143 Forsyth street. Miss Cochran told officers she had seen a letter from Knight, addressed to another woman and postmarked in Wilmington.

Knight was implicated in the Milledgeville affair by Jack Lunsford, arrested by the Atlanta police last Saturday. The police believe Knight is the last of the gang, John Braxley and a negro having been arrested in Milledgeville recently.

Governor Slaton pardoned Knight on account of his youth, twenty-two years, and because he is supposed to be the support of his old mother. After his release Knight married. He deserted his wife, however, and she has been living in Atlanta, unaware of his whereabouts.

This Home-Made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You

Costs Little, but there is Nothing Better at any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough almost instantly, and will usually conquer an ordinary cough in 24 hours. This recipe makes a pint—enough for a whole family. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $2.50.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating bronchial asthma, bronchitis, spasmodic croup and whooping cough. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

WANT PLENTY OF ROOM FOR SHRINERS' COMFORT

General Secretary Greenfield Expects 40,000 Visitors for Gathering in May

From every part of Atlanta the responses have been coming since last Sunday to the Shriners' call for room room for visitors.

"Our list is growing fast," said J. C. Greenfield, general secretary of affairs for the Shriners' gathering in May. "But we want more—more—as many as we can get.

"Atlanta is just now beginning to realize what a tremendous crowd is coming. There will be between 30,000 and 40,000 people here that week. When you put that many people into a city whose population normally is about 200,000, it means filling all the hotels, all the boarding houses, and numbers of private homes.

"We want to hear from the best people in Atlanta on this. We will need rooms in the best homes in town. We are listing everything, and doubtless will fill everything, but we must have more rooms worth a good price than rooms of cheaper value."

Mr. Greenfield is in general charge of this matter, and all householders who have rooms that will be available that week are requested to communicate with him. His office is in Masonic Temple. He can be reached there by telephone, Ivy 4297, or by mail or in person.

IN LOCAL THEATERS

Atlanta—Ziegfeld's Follies.
FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—"The County Sheriff."

(Criticisms of initial performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater management.)

One hundred of the handsomest women of the world are employed in the chorus of "Ziegfeld Follies," the massive musical comedy entertainment which is to be presented at the Atlanta tonight and Friday, with Friday matinee. This engagement will mark the first and only presentation here of the "Ziegfeld Follies." The organization is making a special four weeks' tour of the principal cities of the south. The cast, which comprises the names of 150 musical comedy favorites, includes Jose Collins, Frank Tinney, Leon Errol, Nat Wills, Elizabeth Brice, Stella Chatelaine, Ethel Amorita Kelley, Anna Fennington, William Le Brun, Murray Queen, J. Bernard Syllyn, Harry Gribbon, Peter Swift, Max Scheck, Charles Furdy, Florence Gardner, Lottie Vernon, Bessie Gross, Rose Wertz, May Hennessey, Dorothy Godfrey, Val Dayne, Dorothy Newell, Aimee Grant, Addison Young, Reta Spear, Lillian Taschman, Charles Mitchell, Fawn Conway, Charles Schribner, Flo Hart, Arthur Rose and Eleanor Dell.

Pretty safe assurance of the lively and high order of comedy offered in the latest Berlin musical farce, "A Modern Eve," at the Atlanta next Monday and Tuesday, is contained in the announcement Mr. Edmund Hume in the cast. Mr. Hume has given the stage several happy specimens of his peculiar cleverness in the past half dozen years in prominent support of Rose Melville, Frank Daniels, George Damerai and others. In "A Modern Eve," Mr. Hume essays the principal comedy role of Cascadier, a gay omega old boy, who is his wife's at the club, but a spiritless, unimportant masculine, a mere member of his wife's household staff, in that lady's stern and sovereign presence. Seats now on sale.

There are many excellent acts on the bill at the Forsyth this week. Attendance has been unusually large at every performance and a tremendous advance sale indicates the theater is going to be packed the rest of the week. The show is one of the best combinations of variety that has ever been in the busy theater.

Ismed, the "Turkish pianist, is proving that a vaudeville audience knows class as well as anybody. This artist plays some of the classic music of the times on a baby grand piano, and earns more applause than has been given some of the ragtime kings.

Laddie Cliff, the English comedian, has won a position here that makes him a real favorite. His songs and dances eclipse anything of the sort that has been contributed by any other artist at the Forsyth, and as a headliner he has more than made good. Harry Tighe and his collegians score a hit that indorses the act as one of the big features of the season. For the next week the star act will be William A. Brady's "Beauty Is Only Skin Deep," conceded to be the very best comedy playlet in vaudeville.

HEAVY RADIATOR FALLS, CRUSHING MAN'S ARM

F. H. Carmichael, a steam fitter engaged in placing the radiators in the new Fulton county court house, let one slip weighing 1,000 pounds Thursday morning. The radiator fell on his right arm, cutting off his thumb, lacerating his hand and badly bruising his forearm. He went to the Grady hospital in a cab. He probably will be confined there for several months.

POLICEMAN SUSPENDED FOR ATTEMPTED KISS

W. H. Bone, 25 Years on Force, Made Advances to Girl He Escorted Home

Patrolman W. H. Bone, of the Atlanta police department, Wednesday was stripped of his badge and arms and suspended by Chief Beavers and was fined $10.75 by Recorder Broyles for trying to kiss a fifteen-year-old girl whom he was escorting home from night school.

Her name is May McGinnis. She lives at 49 Garnett street, and the school is on North Forsyth street. Bone has been in the habit of taking her home every night.

A few nights ago on her front porch Bone, it is alleged, asked her to give him a kiss. She pushed him away and ran into the house and told her mother. Her mother reported to the superintendent of the night school. The superintendent reported to Chief Beavers, and the chief called Bone before him.

Bone admitted asking the girl for a kiss, it is said.

Bone has been in the police department twenty-five years. He is fifty-five years of age, gray haired, and has a family of children including a fifteen-year-old daughter.

His suspension holds until the board of police commissioners meet, at which time the board will deal with him.

Watch Carefully the Child's Diet

Start Them Off Right With a Good Laxative and Then Watch Their Food.

RALPH M. PATTEN.

Mothers are often unconsciously very careless about the diet of their children, forcing all to eat the same foods. The fact is that all foods do not agree alike with different persons. Hence, avoid what seems to constipate the child or to give it indigestion, and urge it to take more of what is quickly digested.

If the child shows a tendency to constipation it should immediately be given a mild laxative to help the bowels. By this is not meant a physic or purgative, for these should never be given to children, nor anything like salts, pills, etc. What the child requires is simply a small dose of the gentlest of medicines, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which, in the opinion of thousands of watchful mothers, is the ideal remedy for any child showing a tendency to constipation. So many things can happen to a constipated child that care is necessary. Colds, piles, headaches, sleeplessness, and many other annoyances that children should not have can usually be traced to constipation.

Many of America's foremost families are never without Syrup Pepsin, because one can never tell when some member of the family may need it, and all can use it. Thousands indorse it, among them Mrs. M. E. Patten, Valley Junction, Ia., who is never without it in the house. Mrs. Patten says that Syrup Pepsin has done wonders for her boy Ralph, who was constipated from birth, but is now doing fine. Naturally she is enthusiastic about it and wants other mothers to use it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter size being bought by those who already know its value, and it contains proportionately more.

Everyone likes Syrup Pepsin, as it is very pleasant to the taste. It is also mild and non-griping and free from injurious ingredients.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington st., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

A Texas Adventure.

What at first was loudly trumpeted as an invasion of Mexico by Texas Rangers and a prologue to unavoidable war, appears in the light of later reports to have been simply a night's adventure by a few citizens who gained their end quietly enough and without opening a way to serious consequences. The incident was picturesque after its fashion, but so far as official relationships between this country and Mexico are concerned, it was unimportant.

Clemente Vegara, a Texas ranchman, who had been enticed across the border in hope of recovering cattle which had been stolen from him, was seized and slain by a band of Huerta's soldiers and buried near Hidalgo. It was to bring home his body that a company of Texans, not the Rangers, went over the Rio Grande; hey succeeded in their mission without disturbance and without actual aid from the Texas troops.

Who is there in Mexico to protest? Certainly not Huerta whose own soldiers are charged with having raided Vegara's ranch and having put him to death; nor are the Constitutionalist leaders in a position to complain. The death of the American must, of course, he requited, but the incident which a few days ago was seized upon by jingoes as a new step toward war will soon be forgotten.

That the Mexican situation is grave and perplexing cannot be denied, but no one has proposed a wiser course than that our Government is pursuing. The President is in possession of more facts than any one else; he views the problem in all its aspects, all its tendencies, and he is guided by a sense of responsibility such as no one else can feel and by a spirit of thoughtful patriotism which no one else transcends. The Baltimore Sun well observes in this connection: "It remains true that the loud-voiced border state governors and senators and diplomats and the American owners of Mexican mines and lands and the newspaper representatives of all of these individuals and interests—all of them who are so shrill in criticism of the President's policy—are as far as ever from suggesting any alternative policy that can stand a moment's examination."

Maybe the army of the unemployed could find quick promotion in Mexico.

Anew hospital, university or grand opera—Atlanta can raise the money for all three.

Home Rule Compromise?

Premier Asquith has finally made known to Parliament his plan of compromise on the long vexed issue of Irish Home Rule. He proposes in behalf of the Liberal Government that an election shall be held in each of the nine counties of Ulster to determine whether they shall be exempt from the operation of the Home Rule act for a period of six years. Should any of these counties vote to that effect, it would be permitted to continue its present representation in the Imperial Parliament and would be free, for the time at least, from the control of a purely Irish Parliament.

The Liberal idea seems to be that at the end of the five-year period, the protesting elements in Ulster would realize the advantages and the justice of Home Rule and would voluntarily cease opposition; or that even should that not be the case, they would at least be protected in all their rights and opinions until the stage of experiment had ended, and that then the question could be handled far more dispassionately and satisfactorily than in the heat of today.

But the opponents of Home Rule are coldly disposed toward this suggestion. They have professed willingness to meet the Government half on any reasonable plan of compromise and, to make honorable concessions themselves in order to avert threatened strife in Ireland. It is difficult to see, however, what more the Liberal ministry, which is squarely committed to the Home Rule bill, could offer, or what means of escape from the impending trouble remains, if this plan is rejected.

It must be remembered, of course, that the merits of an issue when viewed from afar are often confusedly seen. Americans are naturally inclined to sympathize with the cause of Irish Home Rule and to ignore the contention of its opponents. The latter must be conceded sincerity. At any rate, it seems evident from English dispatches that Home Rule in one form or another will soon be a fact.

Maybe the price of eggs will descend in time to provide the material for the Easter hunt.

Credit should be given everybody, and it is just as well to point out that the weather man hit it right twice in succession.

Fair Play for Atlanta Merchants.

The Secretary of War has properly ordered an investigation of the repeated complaints that food supplies for Fort McPherson are bought at distant points when they could be secured as cheaply, if not more so, in Atlanta. This is a matter of much consequence to the city. It involves hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of trade and also a principle of business justice. It is scarcely less important to the Government, for, if supplies that could be purchased economically in the immediate neighborhood of the Fort are being shipped from far-off quarters, there is evidently somewhere a lack of efficient management.

Atlanta merchants are entitled to no special favor inis regard, and they ask money. They simply insist that they be given a fair chance and that when their goods and prices are on a par with those offered at other places they be accorded the natural preference which their location well warrants.

This truth, the Secretary of War evidently recognizes; elsewise he would not have seen fit to direct a thorough inquiry. It is now incumbent upon Atlanta merchants to present all the facts in their case and to show precisely their ability and willingness to serve the Fort as advantageously as it could be served from any other part of the country. Major Martin, representing Fort McPherson, and President Wilkinson, of the Chamber of Commerce, have already conferred, and between them arrangements will be perfected for a full hearing. The merchants are most directly concerned. It is important, therefore, that they make the most of the opportunity to set forth Atlanta's claims.

This issue has arisen time and again in recent years, but it has never been conclusively dealt with. The occasion is now ripe for asserting and establishing once and for all the principle of fair play toward Atlanta interests in the purchase of commissary supplies for Fort McPherson.

The man who invented free lunch is dead, but his victims live on.

The Alaskan Railway Act.

The enactment of the Alaska railway bill embarks the United States upon an enterprise of far-reaching consequence. hTe measure provides for the construction of a thousand miles of Government railroad to connect the seaboard with the coal fields, and carries for that purpose an appropriation of thirty-five million dollars. The President is empowered to select the route, to decide whether or not railroad lines already built in the territory shall be purchased as a part of the Government system, whether the road when completed is to be operated by the Government itself or leased, and to determine other matters of important detail These are large responsibilities, but the country is confident that they will be efficiently met by the Wilson administration.

There have been serious doubts as to the wisdom of committing the Government to certain policies which this measure involves. That the Government should enter upon the construction and ownership and, perhaps, the operation of a railway system, is certainly a sharp depature from precedent. But it is pointed out by the advocates of the new act that Alaska presented a new problem which had to be met in a new way; the question was, they contend, whether the key to the natural treasure of this territory should be held by private monopoly or by the Government. It is evident that whatever influence controls the railroads of Alaska will determine the economic future o. Alsaka, will determine whether the territory is to be an open field for individual initiative and public opportunity or a closed realm for special privilege. This being the alternative, Congress has wisely chosen Government ownership for the railroad system that had to be built.

The development of Alaskan coal fields will mean much to the people of the Northwest. It will hearten their industrial efforts and contribute to every sphere of their prosperity. As decades advance the value of this territory will increase, its resources will play a larger and larger part in the common country's interests, and the significance of the Administration's present policy will become more and more evident.

In any event, Alaska will not be bothered with the freight rate problem.

Alaska in Brief

In 1867, the United States paid $7,200,000 for Alaska. The next exposition will undoubtedly be held in 1917 in commemoration of that buy. What a bargain it was!

The agricultural resources of interior Alaska are capable of sustaining the population of Russia, Siberia, Sweden, Fhland and Denmark.

Alaska is 586,400 square miles in extent. The population in 1910 was 64,356, including natives, but it is holding out a beckoning hand to the seekers of new homes.

The entire mineral production in 1911 was valued at $20,650,000. The gold production in 1911 was $16,853,256, compared with $16,126,740 in 1910. The production of silver in 1911 was 460,231 fine ounces. The copper production in 1911 was 22,314,889 pounds. Alaska has two notable coal fields larger than any in the United States.

The Alaskan railroad bill provides for the construction of a road "not to exceed 1000 miles, to be so located as to connect one or more of the open Pacific ocean harbors on the southern coast of Alaska with the navigable waters in the interior of Alaska, and with a coal field or fields yielding coal sufficient in quality and quantity for naval use, so as to best aid in the development of the agricultural and mineral or other resources in Alaska."—Baltimore News.

The Conning Tower

BY FRANKLIN P. ADAMS.

There are 200,000 unemployed in this great city, excluding Morningside exchange telephone operators and most copy-boys.

We Apologize, for Mr. Siddall, to the Pennsylvania R. R.

Sir: The truth shall prevail, but not always in time for The Conning Tower. I hear rumors" today that the inscription I told you about is not on the Pennsylvania Station, but on the Post Office Building across the street from the Pennsylvania Station. It is even funnier on a Post Office than on a railway station. Yet, if these rumors are confirmed, the Post Office ought to have all the credit.

You say that I am slow when it comes to handling news. It now appears that I ought to be.

THE DIARY OF OUR OWN SAMUEL PEPYS.

March 7.—With Mistress Alice Davidson and a great party to the playhouse, and saw "The Laughing Husband," a witless piece, methought, and thence all to Dan'l Frohman's office where we did have eakes, the finest ever I tasted, which Mistress Alice baked herself, and which I must have had an hundred of. Had some merry talk with Estelle Kirby, and with a fine dark girl whose name seemed to be Charlotte, but we did not meet.

8.—To my office in the evening and laboured there till late, whence to Nelly Tyler's, where I found Harvey O'Higgins and Anna, and we had discourse as to what I should say in which Mistress Anna said I ought not say that which was not pleasant of the work of my friends, which I do not hold at all. Also I did meet G. Creel that was police commissioner in Denver, and he told me things of great interest about that city. So home and to-bed.

9.—To dinner is come R. Werrenrath the singer, and tells us of his new daughter, born Saturday, and they have named her Dorothy. To my office then and finished my stint by times, and then read Sinclair Lewis's "Our Mr. wrenn," the drollest book I have read since "Once Aboard the Lugger"—; yet, like most droll things, not so droll neither, but with here and there a tear.

Sing, Heavenly Muse!

(Received by a New York publisher.)

Bay City, Texas

Dear Sirs,

I am enclosing a few lines of my first poetry. Please and is worth considering to your eye? If so, do not make my name public if a name be necessary make it ——— for the present.

Yours truly,
Miss ———

Many of the rarest flowers by the world are never seen
Many of the sweet voices in this life will never sing
Many of the truest poets will never have a chance to show their themes,
Many of the loveliest maidens will never have a chance to wear the sacred ring.

They who could easily find these treasures are as if they had not life
They who are eager and know somewhere these exist go on their search in vain strife
Search ye who can easily find these treasures,
Search not on when it is too late
But while the rarest ones are fright
Why is love when given by the most true and loying hearts denied,
Why doth when trapped and fooled by the false maiden go to the true for comfort.
Why! because he knoweth she is too good for him
And then since he hath denied her true and faithful love;
He doth not dare tell her he hath been fooled and scorned by the other whose heart is false.

Oh! Will the blind lover even waken,
Look she who is too good for even some of the best;
Who's true heart would ever help the world if only her greatest bedires were not denied
That for which she yearns her life away she never gets and why
Because he who alone in this world can give it is blind.

Awake ye lover of the false and unworthy.
Help the true and faithful one to accomplish that which all the world together cannot do.

Dean of American Letters

Were William Dean Howells living in retirement, congratulations on his seventy-seventh birthday anniversary last Saturday might properly have saluted him. In the stately language of Daniel Webster, as a "venerable man who has come down to us from a former generation," for he was known and honored in American letters in a generation that Longfellow, Hawthorne, Lowell and Holmes adorned. His share in the work of our own time, however, is too notable to admit of classing him with the past. He belongs to this generation by active service if not by birth, and holds a place of undisputed leadership among our most forceful and alert editors in the magazine world.

Long-lived as have generally been the happy possessors of lettered ease, there are not many that have had a record of continuous literary production for so long a period as Mr. Howells. As far back as 1860 he wrote a life of Lincoln, and his work has been continuous ever since. He had his period of popular supremacy as a novelist, and most of his novels are still read by those to whom reading is something more than a mere pastime. Some of them are permanent contributions to literature, and will be studied by historians of the future who wish to understand American social life during the last fifty years. He has a double merit to congratulation, therefore, in his hale old age—of fame achieved and recognized, and of active service admired and honored.—New York World.

The Journal's Letter Box

Huntsville, Ala., March 9, 1914.

Editor The Journal:

Spending a few days socially in your splendid city, I have just read with intense interest and most pleasurable pride the very timely suggestion in your issue of this date that Wesley Memorial hospital be enlarged in its equipment and capacity of greater buildings and thereby give the central south a great hospital the equal in every sense of the word of the great Johns Hopkins hospital of Baltimore, and I beg to heratily commend the splendid idea. No city in our great southland is so admirably located and geographically so advantageously situated as Atlanta for such an institution. Its many trunk line railroads reach out and touch all sections of the south more completely than any other city in the southern states. The time has come, and opportunity knocks now at the door of Atlanta for a hearty welcome to a great institution such as you have outlined. I feel that the "Atlanta Spirit" will, as it has so often done in the past, recognize this great philanthropic duty and promptly meet the demand of the hour that comes to it as the ideal and representative city of the new south. The growth, rapid development, population and tremendous wealth of the southern states deserve and their needs demand a great institution centrally located the equal in every way of Johns Hopkins. And Atlanta is the logical location for it. Too long has the south been content for its glory to remain departed and its rightful sceptre rest on the brow of great centers of the north through achievements of her own distinguished sons in the activities of commercial trade, invention, constructive ability, professional attainments in the law, the science of medicine and surgical skill. Just now I am reminded that Alabama has given New York City Dr. John Wyeth, whose work on surgery is of international authority; Dr. Marion Sims and others, while scores of names that have illumined the glory of New York, Chicago and other great cities of the north were "native to the manor born" in our southland. And in Atlanta and all over the south can be found scores of great physicians who have the learning, capacity and skill to man a great medical institution in Atlanta that will in every respect be able to compete successfully with Johns Hopkins. So let's have it. The "Atlanta Spirit" can do it.

What would women do if they were on the municipal boards?

Instinctively all women are mothers, and, intuitively, teachers. Given authority on the boards she would proceed to clean, feed, teach, nurse and punish Atlanta much as she does the child in her home.

To be sure, no child enjoys his mother's thorough cleaning, but it makes him a healthier individual and better citizen.

You have yet to eat better food than your mother supplied. The truths she taught still dominate your life; her care prolonged your days, and her punishments saved you from greater sorrows.

And she did it not for gain, power or glory, but for love; to develope in you a sane, healthy, helpful citizen, and to maintain in her child the image of God. Certainly, women on the municipal boards would do for the city just what your mother, wife or sister is doing for your home.

Georgia Papers Urge New Trial for Frank

(Albany Herald.)

Contending that Leo Frank did not have a fair trial, and without entering into a discussion of facts upon the condemned man's probable guilt or innocence, The Atlanta Journal, in a leading editorial in its Tuesday afternoon's issue, demands, in the name of public opinion, a new trial for the man convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan.

The Journal treats the Frank case as "a finished case," so far as the courts are concerned, and one which it wants no more, therefore, discuss with entire propriety. The conviction of the accused man has been affirmed by the state supreme court, and Frank will be hanged April 17, unless the extraordinary motion to be made by his attorneys for a new trial should be granted, or executive clemency in his behalf should be exercised.

We believe The Atlanta Journal's position is correct. The Herald has given expression to similar views since the supreme court handed down its decision in the celebrated case, and subsequent developments have but strengthened our convictions.

We do not believe any twelve men in Georgia are so immune to the influences of passion, prejudice and the spirit of mob law, as manifested in Atlanta at the time of Frank's trial, that they could fail to be so swayed by them as to be incapable of fairness to the accused. There was never a trial in Georgia like the Frank trial, and the sober second thought of a people who are above all things fair-minded now demands that the injustice hastily done be undone while there is yet time.

It is not within the province of a newspaper to tell the courts what they should or should not do, but it is right and privilege to speak for fairness and justice when both are being forgotten or ignored.

(Rome Tribune-Herald.)

We are pleased to note that The Atlanta Journal comes boldly out and demands a new trial for Leo Frank. That this right and proper from the fact that the crime was committed in the city of Atlanta, its home.

On last Sunday morning, believing it to be our duty, the Tribune-Herald made a similar demand, requesting the press of the state to speak out and prevent the execution of Frank if possible from the lack of reliable testimony as submitted in the trial and under the excited conditions of the people at the time.

We have maintained from the first that the character of the evidence was not sufficient to convict any man for the crime of murder. By all means give the unfortunate man a new trial that justice may prevail.

Milady in the Woods

The day when the woman in the woods was regarded as overstepping the prerogatives of her sex and having entered a domain sacred to mankind has passed forever. More and more our wives, sisters and even our mothers are discovering, if not all the pleasures of the pathless woods, at least the joy of a sojourn in them.

We are glad to see, therefore, not only a growing realization, but a growing interest in the subject of camping life for women. We have an idea that woman herself cannot gain much knowledge of what to do or what to wear by reading her fashion magazines, but the great outdoor problems are coming bravely to her rescue in providing for her a suitable apparel, and for her comfort the multitudinous little accessories that add nothing to weight, but mightily to comfort.

With the mysteries of feminine apparel, we are content to let the dealers deal. The lady who turns to them will not have to say, like Rosalind, "I could find it in my heart to disgrace my man's apparel and to cry like a woman." For, properly outfitted, the woman in the woods may be as comfortable, as happy, and healthier than in her city home. The woman in good health can go every place where a man may venture, but it is necessary for her to make her do so.

But maledictions upon the head of him who will take his women folk into the woods without thinking of these essentials. Who has not met the wandering wight, the flower of civilization, perhaps, in his city life, floundering at the head of an expedition made up partly of his female relatives, and suffering through ignorance or carelessness from all the discomforts that follow those who know little of woodcraft, and are dependent solely upon guide craft—the latter too often a slovenly substitute, and the opposite of clean and comfortable existence? When we see this sort of thing we may well exclaim with Jacques, "I met a fool i' the forest," adding to the observation the good qualifying Anglo-Saxon word that emphasizes the point. His punishment should be in proportion.—Forest and Stream.

TUNNELING

By Frederic J. Haskin

With the core of the earth remaining to be discovered, an intensive appropriation of sub-surface space is in progress. The human race having overrun the world, even to dispelling the mystery of its frozen poles, is now driving its shafts and galleries ever deeper and further into the ground and fictitious property rights to all that lies between the surface and the center of the earth are in a fair way to becoming exploited.

That, like the ants, men will build villages and cities underground, when the surface of the earth shall have become exhausted to further appropriation before his progress, has been a favorite subject for prediction to scientists who delight in estimating what conditions in the world to come will be, basing their calculations upon present ratios of increase in population, the use of fuels, metal, woods and other data. They picture broad, interlacing subterranean, lighted by electric currents which also stimulate plant growth in the absence of sunlight, and teeming underground-dwelling peoples.

Before modern methods of excavation, the greater of natural obstacles, deep waterways and giant mountains, have given way. The tunneling shield and the use of compressed air have brought famines of connecting the continents by subterranean highways within reach of feasibility. To drive a tunnel from New York City under the Atlantic ocean to some European port would no longer be a wild undertaking from an engineering point of view. However, while there are citizens capable of supervising so stupendous a task and carrying it to a successful completion, there are probably no financiers, nor aggregations of financiers, able to spare the hundreds of billions which such a tunnel would cost. Nor is it likely that such a tunnel would be a paying proposition.

Thus, it was proposed in 1867 to build a tunnel connecting France and England. A company was actually organized in France for this undertaking, and considerable diplomatic correspondence passed between the two governments regarding it, the ultimate effect of granting the company franchise rights. The company was able to obtain from the emperor of the French an expression of willingness to consider the project, and in 1875 the French ambassador in London brought the matter to the attention of the English foreign office. The Franco-Prussian war, which broke out in the same year, interrupted the negotiations.

Following the conclusion of the war the company again pressed the governments for franchise rights. A perpetual franchise was asked. The French government refused to act without the reaching an understanding with the English government, which evaded making direct answer until 1882. In that year an English commission, appointed to investigate the channel tunnel scheme, reported adversely, influenced principally by fears that the tunnel would lay England open to invasion. The commission made an elaborate report of conditions which it would be necessary for the government to make before giving its approval. Among them were provisions that the tunnel must be so constructed that it could be flooded by apparatus controlled at the Dover fortifications and at London, that it could be pumped full of life-destroying gases from the fortifications, and that it could be entirely destroyed by explosives.

The plan to connect England and France by tubes under the channel, however, now gives promise of being realized. Preliminary surveys have been made. Dover and Sangatte, thirty-two miles apart, have been selected as the terminals, and the plan is to connect them by two single track tubes. The cost has been estimated at $30,000,000, and would be borne equally by France and England. The tunnels would pierce the channel 250 feet below the surface, and would take about four years to complete.

According to present prospects, the greater part of the world's traffic, freight and passenger, will be carried through sub-surface channels in the years to come. The traffic of the modern metropolis is becoming more and more a matter of subway congestion. New York, London, Paris, Berlin and other large cities are adding to their streets a honeycomb of underground galleries along which are sped the millions of people and thousands of tons of freight which would hopelessly congest the city streets were it necessary to transport them on the surface. Only by means of its subways is the modern overgrown city a possibility.

Removal of traffic to underground passageways has much in its favor. First, the tube traffic is safer than that above ground. It uses away with all grade crossings and restores surface grounds for other uses. Further, once constructed, the subway is more permanent and has much less to suffer from the wear of unfavorable weather.

The use of tunnel shields and compressed air have greatly simplified tunnel construction. The first mention of the shield, or inclosed case, which is forced along in advance of the excavation of a tunnel was in a patent specification of Marc Isambard Brunel, which was taken out in 1818. Brunel's invention contained practically all the elements of the most elaborate shields in use today. Brunel tested his own invention in the work of boring a tunnel beneath the Thames, which began in 1825 and was brought to a successful conclusion in 1843.

Almost all sub-surface work, other than that done in mines or by the "cut and cover" method, is now done by means of shields. These shields are massive structures of steel or iron, constructed a little larger in diameter than the tunn l to be dug, divided into compartments and provided with guards for the protection of the workers. They are forced into the material to be excavated by means of powerful hydraulic jacks, while the steel, masonry or concrete of the tube is builded behind them. Many of the early shields were moved forward in sections. Modern shields are forced forward in one piece.

The next step in tunneling was the employment of compressed air. When excavating tunnels in water-bearing materials, such as driving tubes under river channels, the pressure of the air forced into the tunnel behind the shields is made equal to that of the overlying materials and the water, and prevents the flooding of the construction. Further, the compressed air insures proper ventilation and copious air supply to the workmen, besides furnishing the power for driving the drills, shovels, pumps, jacks and shields. The use of compressed air was first applied to tunnel construction by Lord Cochrane, who took out a patent in 1830 for its use in water-bearing material for the purpose of expelling from and holding up the face of the excavation.

In the early stages of the employment of compressed air in tunneling considerable difficulty was experienced in combating the bad effects of high atmospheric pressures upon the working men. Caisson disease made ravages among the men, often resulting fatally. This disease, now dependant upon increased atmospheric pressure, develops only after this pressure has been removed. It is accompanied by excruciating pains that break down the endurance of the strongest men. Its symptoms are numbness in the joints, in the trunk, sometimes accompanied by local or general paralysis and cerebral symptoms such as headache and vertigo. In fatal cases, congestion of the brain and spinal cord takes place.

This trouble has now been overcome. Men employed to work under compressed air are rigidly examined by physicians, and all physically unfit are rejected. The causes of the disease have been determined as excessive pressure, impurity of the air in the pressure chamber, and too prolonged immersion. These causes have been met by working the men in shorter shifts, under pressures of fifty pounds to the square inch in shifts of one hour; by supplying a minimum of 4,000 feet of fresh air per man per hour, and by making the transition from compressed air to normal conditions gradual, allowing five minutes for each change of pressure above normal.

Station Agent Worried When Relatives Fail to Call for Negro Corpse

EATONTON, Ga., March 12.—An incident whereby the Central of Georgia depot at this place was turned into a temporary morgue, created excitement here this week.

A negro corpse shipped from Jacksonville, Fla., lay unclaimed at the depot from Saturday until Tuesday, with little prospect of being claimed before unclaimed freight in the usual went on last for the Central's regular "ole hoss sale." Morris Griffin, a negro farmer living in the northern part of the county, finally arrived upon the scene to relieve the dilemma of Agent Bronson, and claimed the corpse as that of an uncle who had died in the Land of Flowers.

Morris happened to be away from home when the message came notifying him of the shipment of the corpse; and then arrangements for "a fust class 'siety funeral" further delayed calling for the unwelcome freight.

OLD CONFEDERATE VET'S INTERESTING NARRATIVE

Sixty-Seven Years of Age, Still Hale and Hearty and Can Swing 14-inch Plow All Day Long.

Frost, Texas.—"I am an old Confederate Veteran, 67 years of age," says Mr. Wesley French, of this place, "and have been living and farming in Navarro County since 1872. Have raised quite a large family.

I am hale and hearty, and can swing a 14-inch plow all day long. Haven't had fever or chills in 44 years, in fact, I don't allow myself or family to get sick. We always take a few doses of Thedford's Black-Draught before we get sick.

When I get up in the morning and have a bitter taste in my mouth, or a dull headache, I take a dose of Black-Draught after eating a little Breakfast, another dose at noon and another at night, and it has never failed to cleanse my stomach and liver. It never gripes, but makes me want to eat, instead of making me sick.

We have used Thedford's Black-Draught for 40 years, (since 1873), and feel that we couldn't get along without it."

For over 70 years, long before the war, Thedford's Black-Draught has been regulating irregularities of the liver, stomach and bowels, such as constipation, biliousness, indigestion, headache, dyspepsia, bad breath, sour stomach, etc.

Purely vegetable. Good for young or old. Twenty-five cents a package. One cent a dose. Try it for yourself.

CONVENTION BUREAU IS PRAISED BY CHICAGOAN

Hubert F. Miller, of Association of Commerce, Commends Effective Work

"There is no doubt about Atlanta being on the map and your convention bureau, under the leadership of Ivan E. Allen, president, and Fred Houser, secretary, has played an important part in putting it there, so far as conventions are concerned."

So spoke Hubert F. Miller, managing director of the Chicago association of commerce, who spent part of Thursday morning in Atlanta, for the purpose of arranging details with the Southern railway for an industrial tour of the organization from the "Windy City," which will touch all of the principal southern cities.

Mr. Miller called at the offices of the Atlanta chamber of commerce and conferred with Mr. Houser of the convention bureau, and W. H. Leahy, secretary of the industrial and statistical bureau, relative to the proposed trip in April. A delegation of prominent Chicagoans in private cars will visit Atlanta at that time for the purpose of becoming acquainted with the city and ultimately to effect certain business affiliations that will be of benefit to both cities.

The visitor was particularly impressed with the wonderful success of the convention bureau and declared it had wrought wonders for Atlanta in placing it among the foremost convention centers in the country. The Chicago convention bureau, he said, secured but forty gatherings during its initial year, while now fully 300 big conventions are already booked for 1914.

Mr. Miller said the local organization had taken strides that were almost inconceivable for the length of time the bureau had been in operation. Atlanta he continued, was being advertised through those conventions in the most effective manner and was already looked on as a most formidable competitor of the larger cities of the east and west.

ONLY ONE MAN PROTESTS AT SUFFRAGE MEETING

Noted Leaders Heard by Many Enthusiasts in Atlanta Theater

A weak male voice from a rear seat was the sole and hesitant argument against votes for women advanced at the Atlanta theater Wednesday night.

In a chilling silence it murmured something about "degrading women by reducing them to man's political level." And that was all. Straightway Miss Jane Addams arose.

"Fortunately," she said, "we have statistics on that very point. In Australia the women have been voting for twenty years and the death rate of children in that country is the smallest in the world."

Cheers from the audience, more cheers and then cheers. And from the rear silence and more silence.

That was the way it went from the very stroke of 8, when the curtain arose on an audience that packed every seat but those in the peanut, to nearly 10:30 o'clock, when by speech and argument and answers Miss Addams and her cohorts had successfully attacked Q. E. D. to the finding of the unknown quantity X—the ballot for women.

Miss Addams and the other speakers were armed with statistics and battle-proof armor against every conceivable proposition that could be advanced against the cause. They came ready for a scrap. "Get up and ask us anything you want to," they said. "We're just spoiling for a fight."

But man in the other corner of the ring already had thrown up the sponge. For when Miss Addams asked for a standing vote on woman's suffrage everybody arose; and when Miss Addams asked for a standing vote against suffrage, each man in the house hugged his seat as if he were wedded to it.

Rainy and miserable night though it was, the Atlanta theater was jammed to the last rail. The majority of the audience were women, but at least a third were men. On the platform, besides the speakers of the evening, were officers of the three Atlanta suffrage associations and many distinguished citizens.

MRS. LAIDLAW'S ADDRESS.

Linton C. Hopkins, presiding over the meeting, introduced the first speaker, Mrs. Harriett Burton Laidlaw, who put force an appeal enough in a ten-minute plea for suffrage to move her hearers to loud and protracted applause.

"The suffragist is the most womanly of women," she said in part. "She is the woman who is not content with brushing the dust away; she wants to know something about the origin of the dust; she is not content with cleaning the kitchen; she wants to clean the kitchens of the city and the state. She is not content with being a good mother to her own boys; she would mother the children of other mothers, know about their schools and amusements. She is not content with just puttering around. She says, 'I am a citizen of this great life. I have duties. I am a modern woman living under modern conditions, and I demand to do things in a modern way.'

"A man has no vote to give me," she concluded. "It is mine already. We will just trust them to do the right thing in the right way so soon as we can get them to understand our message. Men, adjust yourselves to the inevitable. We are going to have this thing. It is for you to decide only when and how."

Miss Caroline Ruutz-Rees, the second speaker, in the course of her argument appealed to members of Lucy Cobb Institute seated in the gallery and to the younger element of the audience to organize a junior order of suffrage, for each member to get ten members and for each of those ten to get ten more members.

The speech of Mrs. Stanley McCormickdrew more applause than any other of the evening. It was a satirical gem. "Put yourself in his place" was the way she looked at it.

In masterly style she pictured women being asked by men for the ballot, putting into the mouths of the women all those futile objections which anti-suffragists present to women today.

EMOTIONAL MEN.

For instance. "Why, men, consider for a moment man's emotionality," she said. "How hysterical he becomes at ball games, how he has been known to stand and cheer for one hour and twenty minutes at a convention. We are afraid to trust him in such an emotional field as politics. Then again men, to give you the ballot would only serve to double the ignorant vote. Should you vote with your wife it is merely doubling. Should you vote against her, it might disrupt the home. Leave the burden of politics to woman, who already is bearing the burden of home life and the problem of housekeeping. We do not want you to bother your handsome heads about politics. You already have the school vote, men. In a few years, if you use it wisely, we may allow you to elect a member of the board of trustees of the state university."

And so Mrs. McCormick touched her hearers in the weak spot, their sense of humor, and won them for her own.

Great applause greeted Miss Addams. In a short talk bereft of dramatics, but bristling with earnestness and force, she told of the work that women have done in Chicago politics and illustrated with specific instances regarding child welfare and social work in that city.

Miss Mary Ware Dennett followed her with a convincing argument.

"Women are people, you know," she said. "Everybody admits that. Then how can you characterize this government as a government of the people, for the people, by the people?"

When the speakers finished the audience was invited to bombard the rostrum with any questions they wished to. At first the men—for men were the only ones who put any questions by the way—were rather backward about queries, but as soon as one led the others followed, and soon questions were flying thick and fast at the speakers, who took turn and turn about at answering them.

Save in one instance, the questions were rather for information, not argument, regarding the success of the suffrage in other states.

Finally Mrs. W. H. Felton arose from her seat on the stage and asked some man in the audience to state the age of consent in Georgia.

She got figures anywhere from ten to fourteen.

"How many of you will rise and agree by that sign that you will petition the legislature to raise the age of consent next year, to 18?" she asked.

The whole house arose.

At this season it comes forward with playthings to keep the children out in the ozone and the sunshine. Which brings us to

Then there is the Scooter with a seat, that generates "two-feet power"; it is $2.50.

Your Children's New Spring Go-Cart or Carriage Is Here

While the larger children play, give the little ones the sunshine and air in one of our handsome English perambulators or go-carts. Each one is smart, new and distinctive in design.

Made in handsome woods, with imitation leather and corduroy upholstery, an attractive and convenient top, patent brake, strong, resilient springs and easy running rubber tired wheels with ball bearings, are a few of their pleasing features. They're the kind that will stand the wear and tear that growing children are prone to give.

We have a splendid assortment of these carriages. All styles, all prices. In the Furniture Store.

Luther Burbank Flower Seeds are best. You can get all varieties here.

The Scarfs For Spring

The Four-in-hand for spring wear is voluminous and brilliant. Silks are rich in quality and quantity. Many of them are double faced, thus affording a non-wrinkle surface as long as the life of the scarf.

Gold and tango red are original glints of color seen intermingling with golden brown, rich blue, dull yellow and black.

Such richness and brilliancy as our spring scarfs support are sure of approval.

Will you have one of these?

Market in New York Closed 4 to 13 Points Higher Than the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 12.—The cotton market was quiet this morning and showed no special feature. Cables were a shade lower than due and after opening steady at an advance of 2 points to a decline of 1 point, the first sale sold about 4 to 6 points net lower. Liverpool was a moderate buyer on March and July and prices rallied 2 or 3 points from the lowest before the end of the first hour. Advices from the south indicated a better spot demand little, prices for old and March contracts sold 60 points over May during the early trading.

There was a quiet interval late in the morning and prices fluctuated within a point or two of last night's closing figures.

Trading became more active during the early afternoon and prices sold 4 to 17 points net higher with May leading the advance on covering of shorts and spot house buying.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.—Unfavorable weather conditions in the cotton region caused an advance of 5 points to 10 points in the cotton during the early trading today. The opening was steady and steady at an advance of 1 to 2 points. Low temperatures in the early sections of the belt caused a buying movement.

Talk of increased acreage this spring and the market down, although bears did not make much headway when prices fell, as soon the trading months were 1 to 2 points down net.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET UNDER HEAVY PRESSURE

Canadian Pacific, Southern Pacific, Sugar, Steel and St. Paul Led Decline

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 12.—American Sugar opened off 2 points today at 97, the lowest price in six years. Rock Island preferred made a new low record. The opening list reacted fractionally. Canadian Pacific, Smelting and New Haven lost about a point each.

Considerable shares continued heavy, which restrained good operations in the speculative issues, although a large range of prices at times was in demand from the short faction.

Bonds were heavy.

Economic conditions had a depressing effect on the whole stock list, the market sagged today. Bears were more insistent in attempting their favorites, regarding the outlook as too uncertain for confident operations.

Renewed foreign selling and further liquidation of Pennsylvania and Reading shares also operated against the market. Trading was dull throughout the morning and only a few stocks were noticeable under pressure, but the market showed a heavy undertone. Losses of fractions among the prominent shares ranged from small fractions to more than a point.

Bonds were heavy.

European selling of Canadian Pacific continued and at first the only additional recoveries were general in the final dealings. Closed steady.

Governor John M. Slaton will be asked to send the invitations to governors of the United States. Mayor Davant will personally write to the mayors of most of the large cities of the country.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says:

Two documents of exceeding importance will leave Washington for the south today. The statement of American mills' consumption during February and their stocks at the end of the month will be issued at 10 o'clock a. m., New Orleans time. This statement will undoubtedly show another big excess of consumption over production. The census bureau's first report of ginning will be promulgated on March 20, and will give the crop of cotton, leaving linters, etc., in a foot note. It will thus be shown how much of the unlimited yield consist of stuff which must find other uses, after it has been ginned, before it becomes staple—the end and the visible. The government change of policy in this most important matter is accompanied by the declaration that the increased production will be maintained, and the method obsolete. If one may judge by the tremendous crop speculation we would not stir, the government reported 2,000,000 bales of linters in the theoretical supply for the season. Such a statement would have a staggering discount, despite news of the most bullish character. Only a crop that is not going to awake from a sleep so sound as to suggest death, could do it. That is the case.

Map shows rain in Texas, Oklahoma, western Louisiana, Arkansas and the eastern part of the belt, unseasonable cold, freezing temperatures, in the northern belt. Generally rather heavy precipitation central and eastern states. Snowfall in the Ohio valley and the Carolinas. Indications are for clearing and continued cold in the Atlantic states, Friday; ordinary frosts 32@36; frosts 24@c; firsts 24@c.

Temperature 32@36.

Potatoes unchanged; receipts 44 cars. Poultry unchanged.

PROFESSOR TAFT UPHOLDS THE MONROE DOCTRINE

AMHERST, Mass., March 12.—Ex-president William H. Taft, lecturing here last night on "The Monroe Doctrine," strongly supported its retention. "We have maintained it for 100 years without firing a shot," he said, "and why should we abandon it now when it stands as an effective warning to bid Europe to keep its land-grabbing out of America."

FAVORABLE CROP REPORTS LOWERED PRICE OF WHEAT

Wheat Closed 1-4c Down, Corn, Oats, Lard and Sides Off—Pork Steady

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, March 12.—Wheat prices rallied today in consequence of Kansas reports that it would take more than a week before showing damage of 30 per cent. The market opened the same as last night, but before noon it had made an advance all around.

Estimates of a wheat crop as high as 1,500,000,000 bushels in Kansas tended to cause the market closed steady at ¼ to ¼@⅝ net advance.

Confirmation of liberal rains in the east and of a weather map indicating offerings helped to depress prices. Opening prices, which were a shade to ¼c higher, were followed by a general rise to above last night's level.

Assertions that sales here on the spot must have been under special condition had a subsequent bearish influence on corn. Closing was ¼@⅜ to ⅝c net lower.

Oats ranged, owing to absence of corn. There was but little pressure to sell.

Large receipts of hogs steadied provisions. After opening unchanged to a shade off the market grew firm and buoyant.

Birthday Cake Presented Mrs. Helen Plane at U. D. C. Reception

Mrs. C. Helen Plane was the guest of honor of the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., at a meeting and informal reception given Thursday afternoon at the Woman's club on Baker street.

The occasion was in celebration of the eighty-fifth birthday of Mrs. Plane, who is honorary president of the U. D. C. The members assembled promptly at 3 o'clock and an interesting program was given. Confederate songs were sung by Mrs. McLauchlin, and a beautiful and inspiring feature was the chorus given by the Children of the Confederacy. Mr. Wardlaw also contributed to the musical program.

An ovation was given Mrs. Plane, who was showered with congratulations and good wishes, and beautiful tributes were paid her by different members of the chapter. The address by Mrs. John K. Ottley, on the subject of what Mrs. Plane had meant to the Daughters of the Confederacy, was heard with tender interest by all present, and the original poem read by Mrs. Thomas Peters met with prolonged applause.

Beautiful Birthday Cake.

The surprise feature of the meeting was the great frosted birthday cake which was brought in by little Miss Lida Williams McCarthy and George Stauffacher, and presented to the guest of honor.

The cake was beautifully frosted with tiny icing roses and in the heart of the roses burned eighty-five red and white candles which suggested the colors of the society. The cake was embedded in ferns and red and white roses.

Another interesting event of the afternoon was the presentation of a U. D. C. badge by Mrs. Williams McCarthy, the president, to Mrs. Lollie Belle Wylie, who is an honored member of the Daughters of the Confederacy, in token of the pride felt by the organization in the success of the "Golden Goose," the clever comedy by Mrs. Wylie, the presentation of which was the social event of the past week at the Lyric.

Mrs. Wylie responded with a gracefully-worded speech of thanks. The meeting was followed by an informal reception.

INTERESTING GOSSIP OF INTERESTING PEOPLE

An event of recent interest was the formal opening of the new $200,000 home of the Women's University club at 106 East Fifty-second street, New York. The nine-story stone building is equipped to rival any men's club except that it has no bar. But to offset that lack it has many dressing rooms, a manicure, and hairdressing parlor and a roof garden for the serving of tea in summer. The tones of the furnishings are not so sober as those of a men's club. Mrs. William Henry Hayes, chairman of the building committee, was the guest of honor.

There was a reception and dance. Different colleges undertook a large part of the furnishing of the new house. Smith college fitted out the library on the third floor, Vassar the living room on the fourth floor, the Barnard alumnae the first floor reception room, and the University of Chicago the first floor dressing room. Wells college gave the silver. Cornell, Mount Holyoke and other colleges furnished other rooms of the house. Of the forty-three rooms twenty are reserved for transient use. The entire eighth floor is devoted to a large gymnasium, shower bath, and dressing rooms. The most beautiful part of the building is the second floor, where the lounging room is. From a balcony one may look down upon the floor, which is elaborately furniture and recessed windows. There is no smoking room for masculine guests, but they are welcome to smoke. Of course, a member may puff away if she wishes. Mrs. Edward P. Townsend is president and Mrs. George McAneny chairman of the house committee. Mrs. Ogden Mills Reid had charge of the furnishing.

English debutantes and dowagers are rather dismayed at the possibility that afternoon courts may be revived at London. Dressing there has to start as soon after breakfast, while bare arms and necks, which look well in the evening, seem rather incongruous by day. And green and yellow silks in the sunshine lend nothing to the beauty of the wearers' skins. Society women are not anxious to wait in the long queue of vehicles going to the palace while small urchins comment freely upon their red noses, blue lips, and mottled complexions.

The limitations, under which a pew holder exercises his right of ownership in pews granted under perpetual deeds in various churches of New York, were defined by the appellate division. The court reversed a supreme court judgment in favor of Rudolph A. Witthaus against the rector, wardens, and vestrymen of St. Thomas Episcopal church.

Witthaus inherited two pews in the church from his mother. He used neither of them, but rented both. For one he received a rental of $374 annually, and for the other $302.50. On one of the pews he paid a tax of $99 a year. The other pew was free from tax. The church burned on August 8, 1905. When a temporary structure was erected, he demanded that pews equal to those in which he had a right should be assigned to him. In the course of negotiations the church offered to pay him the amount for which each pew was carried on the books of the church. He refused the proposal and the offer was withdrawn.

English society will be present in force at Cannes during March. The duke and duchess of Roxburghe, the earl and countess of Granard, Lady Paget (who is going to join Mrs. Leeds), and Lord Leigh will be among the number. Anthony Drexel is taking a party of men on his steam yacht. A large part of the Riviera contingent will go to Paris for the royal visit.

Another American woman of distinguished family will soon do her share in carrying American civilization to the Balkans, where she goes to Belgrade, where her husband has been appointed secretary of foreign affairs. She is first making a short visit to this country.

Mme. Grouitch, who was formerly Miss Gordon, of Virginia, met her husband at Athens when both were students there. After they had married he rose to be Servian minister to England, and with him she has played an important part in the high social circles of the British metropolis and Paris.

She did notable work for the wounded of her adopted country during the Balkan war, and made a tour of America in the interests of the wounded soldiers. Later she went to Belgrade to work in the hospitals. King Peter and the two young princes are delighted that she is settling in their capital. The two young men brought up without a mother owe much to Mme. Grouitch, who acted as a social mentor during their several years in England. Princess Helene of Servia, now the wife of a Russian grand duke, is also a firm friend of Mme. Grouitch, with whom she worked in the hospitals at Belgrade.

Newport society women have declared war on large hips, double chins, too liberal waist lines and thick ankles. They are discarding bridge whist and powder puffs for gymnasium drills and dumb bells. They have decided that the Swedish method is the most desirable. Classes will be put through a stiff course by Lieutenant J. R. Morrison, their official physical instructor. Lieutenant Morrison is attached to the training station. First there will be the "leg exercise." (Lieutenant Morrison believes in calling a spade a spade. He said:

"The leg, span, and bending exercises will straighten the spinal column. Likewise it will lumber the legs and improve one's carriage.

"Our breathing exercise will expand the chest, strengthen the muscle of the shoulders and stimulate and strengthen the lungs. We shall have balancing exercises to give poise and erect bearing. Then there are the dorsal movements for the muscles and sinews of the back; the abdominal exercises to reduce the waist line, and lateral movements to reduce the thigh.

"Also we have jumping and vaulting exercises to promote general gracefulness, judgment, mental poise and courage. Nor is the calming exercise the least important in our repertory."

The costumes will include black bloomers, middy blouses and rubber-soled shoes.—Exchange.

40 Is a Woman's Glorious Prime

When a woman realizes that her youth is slipping by! Almost 40!

She looks back and sees that first white hair over her ear. She jerked it out, and laughed! Then she remembers combing her hair each morning and carefully looking and picking out two or three glistening white threads. And the next year! The white hairs pulled out one day were replaced by twice as many the next. And she drifted on.

Are you just drifting toward a gray-haired old age at 40, the age that should be the glorious prime of a woman's life?

We wish you would get our booklet "Charm" and read it. (At any of our stores, or sent by mail upon request.) It explains why you can safely use Robinnaire's Hair Dye. It is not an ordinary coloring. We should have named it a Restorative, because it is a pure, scientific compound that simply restores the hair to its own original color and beautiful, healthy condition. If you have but a few white hairs, don't pull them out. Restore them to their original vigorous color, and at the same time put your hair in a healthy condition and stop its fading. The hair responds quickly to the proper care and treatment, and the woman who wants to keep its beautiful color and fine texture can do so.

Robinnaire Hair Dye is absolutely pure and harmless. Non-sticky, and does not stain skin or scalp. Use it immediately if your hair is fading and losing vitality. Trial size 25c, postpaid 30c; regular large size 75c, postpaid 80c. Prepared for light, medium and dark brown and black hair. For sale by all Jacobs' Pharmacy stores and druggists generally.

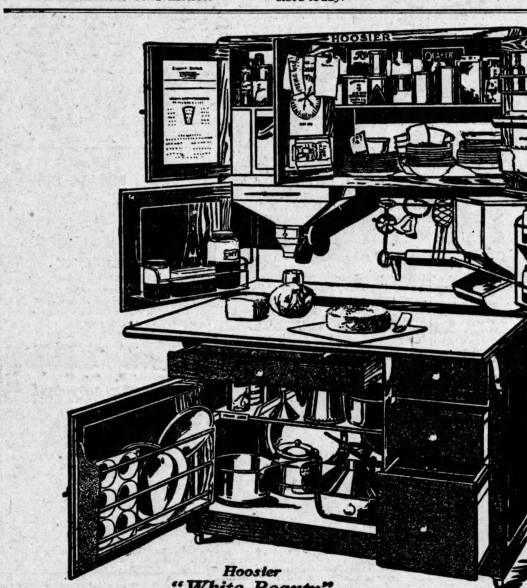
The Standard Everywhere for the Woman of Fashion



Hoosier "White Beauty" advertised in leading magazines

It Cannot Take You 10 Minutes to Decide Whether You Prefer "White Beauty" or a HOOSIER with "Oak" Inside—Delivered to Your Home for only $1.

It is necessary now that you make your decision quickly if you are to secure your Hoosier on the attractive HOOSIER PLAN, for there are only a few of each left on our floor.

This Opportunity Will End When the Last of this Allotment of Hoosiers is taken—Possibly TOMORROW.

Before you hesitate longer, therefore, ask yourself these three questions:

(1) How can I possibly benefit by not getting a Hoosier now on the Hoosier Plan?

(2) Can I not better afford to pay one dollar now than the entire cash price all at once later?

(3) Shall I risk being too late, merely through failure to act now? Or shall I go down to the store tomorrow and make my decision then—knowing that the sale may close by night?

Consider the Advantages that the new Hoosier presents—40 tested features of convenience, 17 of which are entirely new—three spacious cupboards and a handy package pantry, grouped around a large sanitary metal table that slides out 16 inches so you can sit down and work—capacity for 400 articles which are so scientifically located at your fingers' ends that even unnecessary reaching has been eliminated—and construction so sound that the cabinet lasts a lifetime without warping or any necessity of repairs.

The Saving of Weary Miles of Steps in the kitchen, alone, makes the new Hoosier of vital importance to every tired woman who hopes to retain her health, happiness and good looks; for kitchen work done in the old way is drudgery, and drudgery sooner or later causes serious ills. The conveniences and the pleasure of working with a Hoosier are great but insignificant advantages compared to the "health side" of the question. Particularly if you are one of the millions of women who never feel perfectly well, and don't know why, you need a Hoosier more than anything else you can buy.

See "White Beauty" in Our Window—It Will Sell Itself to You. And Here is the Easy Hoosier Plan on which You can Buy it Tomorrow.

1. $1 puts the cabinet you choose in your home.
2. $1 weekly quickly pays for it.
3. The Low Cash Price fixed by the factory prevails strictly.
4. No interest. No extra fees.
5. This sale is under the direct supervision of the Hoosier Company.
6. Your money back if you are not delighted with your Hoosier.

Could any possible further advantage be held out to induce you to act tomorrow in your own interest? We know of none, and we count confidently on your coming tomorrow—before it is too late. (145)

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

Jumper the Hare had meant to go to the place deep in the Green Forest where Peter Rabbit had seen those strange, great big tracks, and see them for himself the very night after Peter had told him about them. But there was no moon that night, and you know it is very, very dark deep in the Green Forest when there is no moon. Of course it would be hard work; very hard work, indeed, to find those tracks in the dark. So Jumper wisely decided not to go until the next night. But the next day and the next night it rained and rained, and it is very uncomfortable going about in the wet unless you have a waterproof coat like Jerry Muskrat or Billy Mink or Little Joe Otter. So Jumper the Hare made himself as comfortable as he could under a thick hemlock tree and watched the rain fall and the snow melt, and tried to be as patient as he could.

When it stopped raining there was very little snow left. "It's of no use to go now," thought Jumper, "because the snow has melted and, of course, the tracks melted, too. I guess I will have to wait for some more snow."

So he waited and waited, but, you see, it was almost spring time, and it began to look as if there wasn't going to be any more snow. Every day Peter Rabbit came up to find out if Jumper had been to look for the tracks, and every day he was disappointed. Of course he ought not to have been, for he knew very well that it would have been a waste of time for Jumper to have gone way off there to the deepest part of the Green Forest to look for tracks when there was no snow; but Peter thought that there might be a little patch left with a track in it—there just might be, you know.

And every day Peter teased Jumper to tell him who he thought might have made those tracks. But Jumper wouldn't. He would just shake his head and say: "When I see those tracks myself and know for sure, then I will tell you, and not before, Cousin Peter." And Peter had to be content with this.

Then one day it snowed, a lovely light, fluffy snow, a typical snow in which to make tracks. Jumper decided to go that very night, for the snow might melt the next day. He invited Peter to go along. But Peter shook his head.

"No," said he. "No, I won't go this time. It's too far, and besides, Cousin Jumper, your legs are so much longer than mine that I never, never could keep up with you. I've seen those great, strange tracks once, and I guess that will do."

"All right," replied Jumper, and hid a smile. You see, he knew that while it was true that Peter couldn't keep up with him if he ran fast, that wasn't the real reason. He knew perfectly well that Peter was afraid, but he was too polite to say so to Peter. So off he started for the deepest part of the Green Forest, the part which Peter had found so still and lonesome. But Jumper didn't mind this as Peter had. You see, he was used to it in the Great Woods where he had been born and had lived before coming down to the Green Forest. In fact, he rather liked it. It made him think of his old home. You know, very few of us are afraid of the things we are used to. It is strange things that frighten us. And that is just the way it was with Peter Rabbit.

All that night Jumper the Hare hopped this way and hopped that way through the deepest part of the Green Forest, but not once did he find one of the strange tracks that Peter Rabbit had told about. "He must have seen them," thought Jumper, "because he told about them just as I remember seeing them in the Great Woods. He certainly must have seen them."

At last he gave it up and started back for the place where he had left Peter Rabbit. Peter was waiting for him. "Did you find them?" cried Peter as soon as he saw Jumper.

"No," said Jumper. "I didn't find them. Tell me about them again, Peter." And Peter did.

The Next Story—Peter Rabbit Forgets About the Strange Tracks.

RAINE PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO MANY INDICTMENTS

Tennessee Bank President Returned to Cell in County Jail

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 12.—C. Hunter Raine, president of the defunct Mercantile bank, which closed its doors after the discovery of alleged defalcation subsequently by Raine of more than $1,000,000, was arraigned today and pleaded not guilty to seventeen indictments. The indictments charge larceny, embezzlement and fraudulent breach of trust; receiving deposits in an institution known to be insolvent and falsifying bank reports.

One indictment also charges Raine, jointly with Claude Anderson, cashier of the bank, of larceny and fraudulent breach of trust. Anderson also is under other indictments and is at liberty on a $10,000 bond.

No request for bail for Raine was made and the banker returned to his cell in the county jail.

Applying This Paste Makes Hairs Vanish

(Toilet Tips.)

The popularity of the delatone treatment for removing hairy growths is due largely to the fact that it is quick in action and does not mar the skin, and since its introduction many beauty experts use it in preference to the electric needle. To remove the hair or fuzz, you mix some powdered delatone with a little water and apply to the objectionable hairs, then in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs have entirely vanished. Excepting in rare instances one treatment is sufficient. [Adv.]

BE BEAUTIFUL

BE CAREFUL HOW, WHERE, AND TO WHOM YOU SPEAK.

Mabel and Edith Taliaferro in a conversation scene.

Ungrammatical sentences often are spoken in the sweetest voice, and slangy or even coarse words come frequently from seemingly refined persons. Slang may go the point upon occasion, but it never is elegant; and coarseness of speech never is to be tolerated. Double or veiled meanings are seldom excusable, and involved sentences are pedantic to say the least. Form the habit of thinking clearly and of expressing yourself in the same way.

It will help in this to practice reading a paragraph, then lay aside the book and repeat its meaning in your own words to an imaginary listener. After paragraphs try anecdotes, then stories—telling these in your own words and taking care to use as few as may be consistent with clearness. Refer to a dictionary for pronunciation as well as the meaning of words where you have any doubt, and this as soon as you hear them. If a word new to you is legitimate, add it to your own vocabulary.

Be wary in your choice of words. Don't say "pretty" when you mean "beautiful"; or "lovely" when you mean "delicious"; or "hate" when you mean "dislike." Comparatively few persons talk without grimacing more or less; and if you would realize how this detracts from beauty, take note of others in conversation.

A quiet, dignified manner while talking adds much to the weight of words. An uneasy, shifting manner suggests insincerity, however this belies the sentiment expressed. It is easy to cultivate a habit of "throwing" the tone so that it will carry just the distance required to be audible to the person addressed.

Do not mouth words or mince them; speak plainly. Avoid conversations on street corners or allusions to personal subjects in public places. Be chary of telling "secrets" and of speaking of personal affairs to others than intimates or those of whose sympathetic interest you are assured.

MADE FIRST ANTARCTIC PLANS, SAY AUSTRIANS

Insist That Shackelton Arrangements Were Made Following Those of Koenig

(By Associated Press.)

VIENNA, Austria, March 12.—Austrian geographers today vigorously supported Dr. Felix Koenig in the controversy with Sir Ernest Shackleton over the plans for the rival Austrian and British antarctic expeditions this year, which have aroused strong international jealousies.

The council of the Austrian geographical society today issued a statement declaring that the plans of the Austrian expedition, to be commanded by Dr. Koenig, were announced in June, 1913, while those of Sir Ernest Shackleton's expedition were published in November. Since then, the council says, Sir Ernest's plans have gradually taken definite form, continually coming nearer to those of Dr. Koenig.

"Sir Ernest's statements in 1910, when he claims his program was formed, were absolutely indefinite and without a germ of a plan," according to the council. "The Koenig expedition has absolute priority."

The controversy arose when Sir Ernest Shackleton stated his intention of starting to cross the Antarctic continent from a base on Weddell seat to which plan Dr. Koenig claims a prior right. Sir Ernest recently refused to co-operate with the Austrians, except in regard to meteorological and magnetic observations and suggested that if Dr. Koenig thought there was not a room for both expeditions he should choose some other route.

U. S. MUST FURNISH ITS OWN POTATO SUPPLY

Many Sources of Foreign Imports Closed Due to Plant Disease Quarantine

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Warning that the United States hereafter must produce enough potatoes to supply the home consumption on account of most sources of foreign imports being closed by a plant disease quarantine was issued by the department of agriculture today. In a statemtnt it is pointed out that Germany has solved the problem of supplying its own needs with this important foodstuff at a reasonable price regardless of annual variations in yield and that the United States might well look to that country in its efforts o better its potato industry.

At the present rate of consumption of potatoes in the United States, which is considerably less than three bushels per capita, the needs of the entire country could be supplied from any one of the states of New York, Michigan, Wisconsin or Minnesota and leave a surplus unused, whereas all the states combined have several times failed to produce enough potatoes to supply the domestic consumption, and in such years large quantities of potatoes have been imported from foreign countries."

OUR ASTROLOGER

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

HOROSCOPE FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 13, 1914.

Three kindly stars May o'erpower Mars.

Astrologers find this a favorable day on the whole, since Uranus, Jupiter and Saturn are all in benefic aspect. Mars alone is evily disposed.

The position of Mars warns against dissensions or misunderstandings, which may have a serious effect in business or social relations. The influences tend to make the temper fiery and speech hasty. Headstrong acts and domineering manners are common when this rule of the planet exists.

Domestic happiness is subject to a malign leading. Trouble in the home is easily precipitated. Persons who were born between March 21 and April 20 are most susceptible to these astral conditions.

Uranus is in a place said to be beneficial for philanthropic undertakings.

There is a fortunate omen for travel or for making changes of importance.

It is a lucky day for dealing with inventors, experimental scientists and cranks.

The sway is encouraging for friendships between persons of opposite sex.

Gain through the occult and occult persons is believed to be common under this government of the stars.

Electricians and railroad employes should benefit from the kindly leading of Uranus.

It is an auspicious time for beginning a new business. Jupiter's vibrations are believed to encourage sound judgment and to produce foresight.

Bankers, brokers, lawyers, physicians and commercial men should profit while the stars are posited as they are today.

Saturn gives promise of fair fortune in dealing with plumbers, shoemakers, miners, agriculturists, landlords and coal merchants.

The time is peculiarly propitious for studying organization and economics.

Persons whose birthdate it is may expect a fairly prosperous year if they avoid litigation of all sorts. Journeys and advantageous changes are probable.

Children born on this day may be quick-tempered, but the stars promise success and happiness. A girl has the augury of a happy marriage.

Well Known Actress Tells How She Darkened Her Gray Hair and Promoted Its Growth With a Simple Homemade Mixture.

Miss Blanche Rose, a well known actress, who darkened her gray hair with a simple preparation which she mixed at home, in a recent interview at Chicago, Ill., made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. 5 Women Avoid Operations

For years we have been stating in the newspapers of the country that a great many women have escaped serious operations by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it is true.

We are permitted to publish in this announcement extracts from the letters of five women. All have been recently received unsolicited. Could any evidence be more convincing?

1. HODGDON, ME.—"I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached and I was so nervous I could not sleep, and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation, but I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman."—MRS. HAYWARD SOWERS, Hodgdon, Me.

2. CHARLOTTE, N. C.—"I was in bad health for two years, with pains in both sides and was very nervous. I had a growth which the doctor said was a tumor, and I never would get well unless I had an operation. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I gladly say that I am now enjoying fine health."—MRS. ROSA SIMS, 16 Winona St., Charlotte, N. C.

3. HANOVER, PA.—"The doctor advised a severe operation, but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it."—MRS. ADA WILT, 196 Stock St., Hanover, Pa.

4. DECATUR, ILL.—"I was sick in bed and three of the best physicians said I would have to be taken to the hospital for an operation as I had something growing in my left side. I refused to submit to the operation and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and it worked a miracle in my case, and I tell other women what it has done for me."—MRS. LAURA A. GRISWOLD, 2300 Blk. East William Street, Decatur, Ill.

5. CLEVELAND, OHIO.—"I was very irregular and for several years my side pained me so that I expected to have to undergo an operation. Doctors said they knew of nothing that would help me. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I became regular and free from pain. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."—MRS. C. H. GRIFFITH, 7305 Madison Av., Cleveland, O.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Regulars Won From Rookies In First Game

Crackers Divide Into Two Squads and Play Six-Inning Practice Game – Welchonce's Regulars Beat Al Nixon Rookies by Score of 1-0

Henry Eibel, who is slated to cover the first bassock for the Crackers during the approaching pennant chase, reached Atlanta Wednesday afternoon. Eibel comes from his home in New York, having recently returned to the big city from Porto Rico, where he has been playing ball for some weeks. The arrival of Eibel brings the list of players on hand up to twenty-two, and three more are expected in today. Pitchers Kissinger, Efird and Hamilton are expected to be the next arrivals.

As per schedule, Manager Smith pulled off the six-inning contest Wednesday afternoon between the Regulars and the Rookies. Harry Welchonce captained the Regs, while Al Nixon led the Rookies. After a sharp skirmish, Welchonce and his crew pulled up winner by a narrow margin of one run, the score standing 1 to 0. The Regs made their marker in the second frame, when Steamer Flanagan poled a double out in the vicinity of the score board, and rode home via sacrifices by Manush and Amason. Jack Doscher and Frank Browning did the slab work for the Regs, while Key Perryman and Elmer Lawrence flung for the Rookies.

Following is the way the two squads lined up:

ROOKIES.	REGULARS.
McMillan, 2b.	McConnell, 2b.
Nixon, cf.	Schwind, ss.
Kircher, lf.	Welchonce, c.
Dunn, 1b.	Long, lf.
Lynch, 3b.	Flanagan, rf.
Walsh, ss.	Manush, 3b.
Walsh, c.	Amason, 1b.
Browning, rf.	Munch, c.
Perryman, p.	Doscher, p.
Lawrence, p.	Browning, p.
Price, rf.

Provided the weather man is on his good behavior, other exhibition contests are due for Thursday and Friday. Then, on Saturday the first game of the exhibition series will be played, between the Crackers and the strong amateur team representing the Baptist tabernacle. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged for this game.

Nelson Knocks Out McMahon

With a right hook to the jaw, Terry Nelson put Jack McMahon, of Chicago, out in the fourth round of their battle at the Columbia theater Wednesday night. The two boxers mixed things pretty lively after the first round, but it was apparent early that McMahon was in distress. Nelson, in spite of the fact that he appeared rather slow, put up a good battle, and showed considerably better use of his right fin than he has exhibited heretofore.

Referee Saul stopped the semi-wind-up between Kid Brown and Young Goldman in the third round. The match proved a joke. Goldman refused to open up and get into the battle, while Brown made little headway, although he appeared willing to scrap. A four-round match between Kid York and Frankie Sass was substituted. Saul's action in stopping the fuss is to be commended. In the opening match Battling obinson won from Young Nelson in a four-round go.

Harry Stout to Referee Battle

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 12.—Differences over the selection of a referee, which at one time threatened to cause a postponement of tonight's ten-round fight between Willie Ritchie, lightweight champion, and Ad Wolgast, were settled today by the appointment of Harry Stout, of this city.

Both fighters announced they were satisfied with Stout.

Wolgast will get 70 per cent of the receipts, which the promoters today insisted would total more than $30,000. Out of his share Wolgast must pay Ritchie his guarantee of $10,000.

Crack Golfers Sail for Europe

NEW YORK, March 12.—Jerome B. Travers, the national amateur golf champion, and Fred Herreshoff, twice runner-up for the same title, sailed today for England, where they will compete in the early season matches there for the English amateur championship.

"REX VS. EX."

---BY RIPLEY

BY RIPLEY.

This time Wolgast fights Ritchie for the championship—before it was Ritchie who fought Wolgast. Conditions are directly the opposite—only the fighters are the same. It is Ritchie who has the confidence and Wolgast who has the hopes.

It will be a battle!

Ritchie, smarting under the undeserved criticism that has been directed at him for some time, is more than anxious to show up the unjustness of it, and Wolgast, in good condition and in his own front yard, seeks to prove that he lost his title on a technicality. That is incentive enough.

Wolgast, even if he did lose his title to Ritchie, gave him his hardest battle. Willie will never forget that fight. True he won, but he has great respect for that little piece of fury that opposes him Thursday night. Ritchie is a slow starter—Wolgast is not. This, combined with the fact that Ad will try his mightiest, promises as warm an evening as ever the summer time will bring, thank you.

John Evers Got Big Bonus from Pres. Gaffney

President of Boston Nationals Hands Trojan John Check for $25,000 at Macon Training Camp for Signing Contract With the Braves. Sweeney to Cubs by Choice

MACON, Ga., March 12.—James E. Gaffney, owner of the Boston National baseball team, arrived here at 8:30 o'clock last night to spend a week with the team. At the hotel he handed Johnnie Evers a check for $25,000, the bonus Evers was to receive for joining the Boston team.

"It had been reported that Evers was to receive $20,000," said Gaffney, as he called the newspaper men over to the great ball player.

"But here is the check. Evers may, if he wishes, tell the amount."

Evers smiled, blushed and handed the check to some of his friends. The figures were for $25,000.

As to the deal whereby "Bill" Sweeney goes to the Chicago team, Mr. Gaffney said that the entire proposition was left up to Mr. Sweeney himself—to go where he could get the best offer.

Sweeney had a good offer from Philadelphia and from Chicago. He chose the latter. "We did not interfere nor make any recommendations to him in the matter," said Gaffney.

Neither Gaffney nor Sweeney would state last night the price Sweeney received for his signature to a Chicago contract.

Sweeney left last night for Tampa where the Chicago Cubs are training.

Cards and Browns Play Tie Game

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 12.—The St. Louis Nationals and the St. Louis Americans played a tie game here Wednesday, the score being 5 to 5. The contest was called at the end of the ninth inning on account of darkness.

Young to Meet Eggers Tonight

Local Featherweight Tackles His Toughest Battle With New Yorker at Georgia Athletic Club

When Kid Young, the local featherweight, steps into the ring tonight at the Georgia Athletic club, 36 James street, to meet Knockout Eggers, of New York, the Atlanta boxer will be taking up the stiffest proposition he has yet encountered in the fistic arena. And no one knows it any better than Young himself. Eggers has boxed some of the best featherweights in the country, and in addition to being a tough, hard-punching boy, will have it over Young considerably in ring experience.

However, Young will not enter the ring one bit abashed by Eggers' record. The local scrapper expects this battle to be settled tonight, and not on any performance that either battler has put up in the past. In other words, Mawrus, references will be nix in this battle when compared with jabs, swings and uppercuts. Furthermore, Young appreciates the fact that a victory over Eggers will afford him the best boost of his ring career, and will open the way for him to get bouts with some top-notch boys. Both boys are willing boxers, and they should give a lively exhibition throughout.

In addition to the main event, Meyer Pries and Spider Britt are scheduled to six eight rounds in a semi-windup. Both boys have fought before local audiences several times, and local fans know what to expect from both of them. Kid York and Kid Henry will box six rounds, and two darktown battlers will furnish a four-round preliminary.

The first battle will be staged at 8 o'clock, and the others will follow in close order. Reserve seats can be had at the club box office.

Athletics Win From Jacksonville Team

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 12.—The world champion Athletics defeated the Jacksonville club here Wednesday in a slow and listless game. Burmeister, who started for Jacksonville, held the Philadelphia sluggers to one hit during the four innings he was in the box. Coles, who succeeded him, was wild and ineffective. The game was devoid of features.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Philadelphia	6	7	2
Jacksonville	3	3	3

Batteries: Bender, Durning, Wyckoff and Schang, Lapp; Burmeister, Coles and Cueto.

Record Broken At Juarez Track

JUAREZ, Mexico, March 12.—Christophine, a three-year-old filly, owned by the western turfman, S. Veiller, broke the world's mile record on a circular track at the Juarez course Wednesday afternoon going the distance in 1:36.

Christophine was aided in the stretch by a strong wind. The race during the first part was slow, the record time being made in the latter part.

The filly stepped the first quarter in :23 2-5, the half in :45 2-5 and the three-quarters in 1:11 2-5.

She was trained by J. Lewis and was ridden by Jockey A. Motts, carrying 102 pounds. She is out of Emma Traunmiller.

The record was broken in the Toluca handicap, in which seven other horses were entered.

Lannin Signs Pitcher Collins

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 12.—After holding two conferences with Pitcher Ray Collins, President Lannin of the Boston American league club, late Wednesday announced that Collins had signed a contract to play with his team during the 1914 and 1915 seasons. While the terms were not made public, Lannin admitted that the Federals made him "bid high" for his left-handed pitcher.

Pitcher Hugh Bedient joined the team in training here yesterday. Speaker and Wood are now the only absentees.

Chinese Players Reach San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—Fifteen Chinese baseball players and their manager arrived here yesterday from Honolulu on a seven months' tour that will end with a series of games in Cuba next September.

The team is the champion of the Hawaiian baseball league and made a tour of this country last year. It has games scheduled in the middle states before reaching New York.

Pitcher Baumgardner Declines Federal Offer

TAMPA, Fla., March 12.—Manager George Stovall, of the Kansas Federal league club, Wednesday afternoon offered Pitcher Baumgardner, of the St. Louis Americans, a salary of $4,000 and a bonus, amount not given, to attach himself to the Kansas City team. Baumgardner refused and told Owner E. E. Hedges, of the Browns, about Stovall's offer.

Wadjeman, football is the roughest game!

Sale of Cubs Still Pending

Charles P. Taft Confers With Chicago Syndicate, but No Sale Resulted From Meeting

CINCINNATI, March 12.—Frank D. Mayer, of Chicago, representing the Spiegel syndicate, held two lengthy conferences here yesterday with Charles P. Taft, and at the close of the second meeting stated that he was confident that Chicago men would purchase control of the Chicago National league club. Mr. Mayer said that Mr. Taft would go to Chicago on Friday and that the question of the disposal of the club probably would be settled at that time.

CHICAGO, March 12.—The Chicago National league baseball club will not be sold this year, in my belief," said John R. Thompson last night after receiving the report of an emissary who had a long conference yesterday in Cincinnati with Charles P. Taft.

Mr. Taft would not set a price for the stock he holds in the club," said Mr. Thompson, "and as far as my agent could determine he has not seriously considered selling his interest."

When this news became public several who have been interested in the possible sale of the control of the club, asserted that the situation tended to confirm previously published reports that Charles W. Murphy never really owned a majority of the stock, and therefore had not sold it back to Mr. Taft.

Alfred DeOro Won From Fred Eames

NEW YORK, March 12.—Alfred De Oro, of Cuba, three-cushion billiard champion, won the second block of 50 points of a 150-point match last night, defeating Fred Eames, of Denver, in 63 innings. Eames scored 35 points and made a run of four. De Oro's best effort was nine. The total score is: De Oro 100, Eames 64.

St. Louis Federals Reach Training Camp

MONROE, La., March 12.—Twenty-eight members of the St. Louis Federal league club, newspapermen and trainers, arrived here yesterday for spring training. Manager Brown will start the players to work tomorrow unless a cold wave prevents. Umpire Cusach accompanied the club.

If they can only keep up their pace and win again from Marist Thursday, they should win from Donald Fraser, but Marist is one team on whom dope cannot be prepared.

Champion Plays In Great Form

NEW YORK, March 12.—An excellent exhibition of balk line billiards was given here yesterday by Joseph Mayer, the national amateur champion, and Charles Hedden, of Dowagiac, Mich., who met in the fourth game of the national amateur 18.2 balk line tournament. Mayer played up to championship form and won by 400 to 262.

Hedden, who like Eugene L. Milburn, of Memphis, yesterday, made his debut in class A championship company, proved to be a general surprise and his deft cue work made a favorable impression. Scores:

Mayer: 0, 0, 4, 1, 7, 2, 37, 75, 0, 6, 20, 2, 14, 69, 0, 25, 0, 69, 41, 0, 28. Total, 400. Average, 19 1-21; high runs ,75, 69, 69.

Hedden: 25, 3, 21, 21, 0, 39, 1 0, 31 9, 2, 0, 11, 9, 11, 18, 23, 12, 5, 0, 20. Total, 262. Average, 12 10-21. High runs 39, 31, 25.

Dr. Walter E. Uffenheimer, of Philadelphia, defeated Eugene L. Milburn, of Memphis, Tenn., 400 to 238 in last night's game. With the exception of the nineteenth to twenty-first innings, Uffenheimer led all the way, running out in the thirty-seventh inning. Score:

Uffenheimer, 400; average, 10 20-37; high runs, 45, 33, 33.

Milburn, 238; average 6 16-37; high runs, 22, 23, 22.

Edward W. Gardner, of New York, and Charles Hedden, of Dowagiac, Mich., will meet tomorrow afternoon and at night J. Ferdinand Peggenburg and Dr. Uffenheimer will be the players.

Ray Chapman Breaks a Leg

ATHENS, Ga., March 12.—Ray Chapman, shortstop of the Cleveland American league baseball team, broke a bone in his right leg here yesterday while sliding to a base. The break was just above the ankle. Although an X-ray examination of the player's injury was made immediately after the accident, it was impossible to learn here last night how seriously he was hurt. The Cleveland team is doing its spring training here.

Brooklyn Federals Leave for Columbia

NEW YORK, March 12.—The Brooklyn Federal league team will leave today for their training camp at Columbia, S. C. The party will be in charge of Manager Bill Bradley and Business Manager John M. Ward.

The club will use the diamond of the University of South Carolina. A number of the players will report direct from their homes.

CHINESE "TY COBB" SAVES DAY FOR HIS TEAM MATES

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—The Chinese baseball team of Hawaii, which arrived here yesterday, owes its escape from spending the night in the detention station on Angel island principally to the prowess of Outfielder En Suey.

The immigration officials were deaf to protests that the players were native born American citizens. "We're sorry" said the officials, "but these men are Mongolians and must undergo the usual examination." Then it was pointed out that En Suey was known as "Ty Cobb the second," whereupon the officials relented and the players were permitted to come ashore. After a series of games in California the visitors will make a tour of the country afterwards going to Cuba.

Keep your eye on Wilson Collins. The fastest man ever turned out by Vanderbilt university promises to be the 14 sensation. He does 100 yards in 10 1-2 seconds in a ball uniform.

Pitcher Harry Hedgepeth Has Signed With Pittsburg Feds

H. Hedgepeth Jumps to the Pittsburg Feds

Twirler Obtained From Virginia League Through the Washington Club Has Signed With the Outlaws – Has Never Replied to Any Communications From Manager Smith

At last a mystery concerning one of the young men on whom Manager Billy Smith has been counting to round into a first-class pitching staff for the Crackers, has been cleared up. He is going to play with the Federal league, on the Pittsburg club. His name is Hedgepeth, he is a pitcher and he played last season in the Virginia league. Such is the information gleaned from the list of players announced from the above club.

Billy Smith has been writing, wondering, guessing and possibly indulging in a bit of mild profanity over Hedgepeth's attitude, since absolutely no news of any kind whatsoever has been heard from him. From all appearances Hedgepeth has decided to let the local people fret and fume along as they will until they learn from any old source just where he will abor during the coming season. Now that the information is out, Manager Smith will at least take a hop from the anxious seat, even though it becomes necessary for him to step out and get a new hurler.

Here is the list of players included on the Pittsburg Federal roster:

Catchers—Claude Berry, Portland, Ore.; C. J. Fullmer, Texas league; John B. Kerr, Baltimore Internationals, drafted by New York Americans; Edward Roberts, last year with the St. Louis Americans.

Pitchers—Elmer Knetzer, Pittsburg; Tom Roberts, Galveston, Tex.; Willie Adams, part of last season with St. Louis Americans; George Leclair, Montreal, Howard Cannitz, Philadelphia Nationals and Pirates; Cy Barger, Newark International league; Harry Hedgepeth, in Virginia State league last year, drafted by the Washington Americans; Edward Henderson, with Lowell last year, drafted by Boston Americans; Henry Law, semi-professional of Lloydell; Walter Dickson, last year with Boston Nationals; Fred Blanding, last year with Cleveland Americans.

Infielders—Hugh Bradley, first baseman, Jersey City International league; Cy Rheams, of Indiana Normal; Jack Lewis, Pittsburg; Allen Morgan, Montreal; Eddie Hooper, Tri-State league; Eddie Lennox, Montreal; Charles McDonald, Boston Nationals part of last season.

Outfielders—Manager Geesler, formerly with Washington Americans; Davy Jones, last year with Detroit and Toledo; Ralph Mattis, Virginia State league, drafted by the St. Louis Americans; J. C. Savage, New York State league; Rebel Oakes, St. Louis Nationals; Bill Holden, New York Americans; Mike Menosky, Pittsburg.

Ritchie Starts For Milwaukee

CHICAGO, March 12.—Willie Ritchie, lightweight champion, who will meet Ad Wolgast in a ten-round bout at Milwaukee tonight, completed his training here today and will leave tonight for the battle scene. Ritchie weighed in today at 136 pounds, one pound above the figure he has agreed to make at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. He said he would have no trouble in making the stipulated weight. Reports from Milwaukee said Wolgast's weight had been announced at 135 pounds.

Betting in Chicago favored Ritchie, odds at 10 to 6 1-2 being reported.

Athletics Play O'Day's Cubs Today

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 12.—Manager Connie Mack accompanied by twenty players, including all of the regulars of the Philadelphia American league club, will leave here tonight for Tampa, where they will play a series of three games with the Cubs. Manager Mack last night wired the Tampa management that the same team that appeared in the world's series, will play against the Cubs there.

Cincinnati has a catcher named Ronkolnitz, and Montgomery has a pitcher named Lautenschlager. Some battery, eh?

Mathewson and Plank, the two veterans of the box, are starting their fourteenth campaigns under the big tent. It takes some athletes to battle Old Doc Time fourteen hot summers.

It is understood that Speaker's contract calls for an annual salary of $16,000 and a $5,000 bonus for signing. Who pays his income tax?

THE SPORTLIGHT
BY GRANTLAND RICE

IT SOMETIMES HAPPENS SO.

"He's got the smoke of Rusie,"
Each war scribe wrote that spring.
"He's got the stuff to throw away
Within his mighty wing;
Just keep your eye upon this guy,
For when he gets his chance
This bloke will be there turning 'em
Into a busher's trance."

Aye, so he looked before he faced
The batting eye of Cobb;
Before he pitched to Crawford's bat
Or found Chase upon the job;
But how long did this busher stick
Amid the jamboree?
Well, Johnson was the moniker
From Washington, D. C.

L. G. F.—Based upon strictly inside information of the best available type, Tris Speaker is drawing the same stipend which Ty Cobb receives. And this is listed as $15,000 per. You can gamble on that and not miss it $2.37 either way.

Now that the last conclave of magnates has been summoned for the next six or seven months, we can look forward with joyous anticipation even unto the first July double-header between the Yanks and Browns. For all things, in this game, as in all others, are comparative, and whatever happens is bound to look good compared to what has already taken place.

AN OFFSIDE ANGLE.

Those who figure exclusively by the dope frequently receive severe, not to say spasmodic, jolts. When a ball player moves from a minor league into the majors he is generally supposed to bat about 30 points shy of his minor league mark. For example, a .300 hitter in the minors is never rated in advance any better than .270 higher up.

But it doesn't always work, this system. Tris Speaker hit .350 in the southern and .360 in the American. Zach Wheat batted only .220 in the minors and over .300 in the majors without a pause. Joe Jackson hit for .352 with New Orleans and .410 with Cleveland in his first complete campaign. Ed Sweeney hit .200 with Atlanta and .270 with New York the next season. Jimmy Archer was a poor hitter in the minor realms and a .280 walloper of the timely brand in the lofty zone of ashstick endeavor. And these examples are only culled from among a thick cluster pointing in the same general direction. Just why a ball player who never moves up where the pitching is better and the fielding is much faster and surer should hit noticeably better is a trifle beyond our ken. But for all that amazing part of it, it is nevertheless quite often true.

THE CASE OF J. DAUBERT.

These freaks of batting form offer some lines of queer study. Take Daubert's hit, .310 with Nashville, and when he went to Cleveland he couldn't hit the Pacific ocean from a steamer deck. Cleveland sent him to Toledo and he dropped to .160. This left Toledo a trifle sour and unappreciative as to his ability, and so Jake was crated to Memphis. There he batted .314. Memphis sent him to Brooklyn, and he stuck in the .300 class.

Just why Jake should bat like an almost-Cobb in Nashville, Memphis and Brooklyn while he couldn't hit a bally link in Toledo and Cleveland, is a problem we pass quietly but firmly along to a more eminent savant attached to our Grandolddope.

IN THE PATH OF THE STORM.

There was something akin to a master mind attached to the Fed leader who planned the raid on the National league. He left the Giants practically intact. With Bescher added, the club is stronger than it was last year. The next best club in sight to help carry out an interesting race looked to be the Phillies. It is here the Fed cyclone struck with its greatest ferocity. The loss of Seaton, Knabe, Doolan and Brennan turns this once formidable machine, barring a miracle, back into the second division. The two clubs next in line were Chicago and Pittsburg. Mr. Murphy attended to the dismantlement of the Cubs as a pennant possibility by dumping Evers. The Feds then lifted at least one valuable man from the Pirates in Hendrix, who has always been a hard bloke for the Giants to beat. The Pirates offset this to a certain extent by getting Koney, Mowrey and Harmon. But there is some doubt as to whether the addition of these three will make up for the loss of Hendrix, Simon, Wilson, Miller, Robinson and Butler from the 1913 guard. So unless there is a decided upset the club with the best show of giving McGraw's people a lingering battle consists of the Boston Braves'.

If all clubs had been raided equally there would have been no ill effects shown. But they were not, in either league, and the two clubs that have shown greater strength in the last few years in both circuits were the ones left almost untouched, offering the possibilities of a runaway race.

Apparently it is up to Washington in the American and Boston in the National to give the two leaders an argument. The main problem, or rather the main gamble, is built around Pittsburg, where so many shifts have taken place that it is practically impossible to offer any true forecast. But Pittsburg, Clarke and Wagner around, must always be figured somewhere in sight.

However, there is little or no chance that the Feds will lift Mr. Milburn from our polo array. Mr. McLoughlin from the tennis ensemble or Mr. Travers or Ouimet from the golfing plateau. So the international trend of things looks fairly serene.

In the meanwhile Sir Thomas Lipton announces compactly that he will carry back the cup this summer. Suppose he does? How many times has its silver touch graced your thirsty lips? Or any one that you happen to know?

FULLERTON'S GOSSIP

Three Cubans—two who can't talk English—are in the Braves' camp. Villazon and Luque are as long on speed as they are short on language.

Ray Collins, star southpaw of the Boston Red Sox, was cracked on the shin with a batted ball and will be out of the game for some time.

Some person rose to remark that the Irish are always popular but he hadn't glimpsed Charles Webb Murphy, of the Cubs, and Charles F. Murphy, of Tammany.

A SCENE FROM "THE FLAMING DIAGRAM"

THE FOREIGN SPY CONFRONTED BY THORWALD.

The Journal's Story of the Movies

The Flaming Diagram

This thrilling story of the Secret Service will be shown on the screen Friday at the Savoy Theater and will be seen in the next week in nearly every city in Georgia. The Journal's stories of the motion picture drama will be published each afternoon, a day in advance of local presentation at the theaters.

Brack leaned over the old man's shoulder and watched with sly and crafty eyes the trembling hand that was transferring to a bit of paper the great secret that had existed only in the inventor's mind. His lips curled into a triumphant smile as Frank Erickson, the old inventor, began to write out the formula that was expected to revolutionize warfare and change the political map of the civilized world.

Suddenly he was seized from behind and wiry arms flung him aside. Thorwald Erickson, the old inventor's son, stood beside him with clenched fists and eyeing him contemptuously.

"I have a good mind to thrash you," he snarled. "You come here as our guest and my sister's fiance, and take advantage of our friendship by prying into my father's private affairs. An honest man's fist is too good for you. There's the door. Now go!"

The young foreigner's eyes blazed hatred and defiance. The gray-haired inventor had left his chair and regarded the scene with puzzled eyes. A slender young woman stepped up to Thorwald and laid a restraining hand on his arm. Tears glistened in the fringes of her eyes.

THE FOREIGN SPY EXPOSED.

"He isn't worth your tears, sis," said Thorwald. "He is a sneaking coward. I happened to be watching him. While father was writing out the formula, he sneaked up behind him, hoping to steal the secret that foreign governments haven't been able to buy with all their millions. You must forget that, you ever knew him, sis."

The young woman fixed a piercing glance on Brack. "It it true?" she demanded. For a moment his shifty eyes met hers and then his glance fell.

"It is true, then—I see it," and the girl pointed to the door. "I never want to see you again—never!" The words sounded as if wrung from aching depths. With a mocking laugh, Brack bowed and left the room.

The old inventor crumpled a piece of paper in his hand. "I hadn't written enough to do him any good," he murmured. "But it shows how careful we must be—so many people are trying to steal it. Only the other day Dagram offered me three millions if I would give it to his government. I wonder if—Do you suppose——?"

The old inventor looked thoughtfully at his son. "Do you suppose that Brack had been bribed by Dagram to get the formula?"

"A sneak like Brack is capable of anything," said the young man contemptuously. "I have long suspected that he is a spy, though he is working as a clerk in an American government office. It's an open secret in Washington that Dagram is the chief of his country's spy system here. I wouldn't be at all surprised to learn that Brack was in his pay."

The old man tottered to his desk. Thorwald went back to his sister, who was still struggling with tears.

"There, Lillian, dear you must be brave. He caressed her rebellious tresses and kissed her. "I know it's hard, but it's better to find out now what a scoundrel he is than—. Good! I just knew you would soon be smiling again."

Lillian brushed away her tears and smiled at her father, who had approached them with an envelope in his hand. But an expression of alarm crept into her face as she noticed his pale and haggard face.

THE SECRET LOCKED IN SAFE.

"I think our secret is safe now," said the inventor. "I have written out the formula in such a way that only two men will understand it. I am putting it in a sealed envelope to be deposited in a safe at the offices of the war department. It is to be opened only after my death and only in your presence. The key which explains the formula will be found in my desk."

His voice faltered, and as Lillian led him to his room he staggered like a drunken man whose work is completed.

A few days later, his fevered mind still busy with the great secret, he died in the arms of his son and daughter, and after their grief had subsided they realized it was time to get the envelope.

"I'll send it to you by messenger," telephoned a secretary in the war department. "Oh, yes, it will be safe. He is an old and trusted man and we will send him over in an automobile."

Thornwald and Lillian waited, a weird silence between them. In a little while the great secret that had throbbed in a dying man's mind would be in their possession. Thorwald stepped to the window and looked out. The automobile bringing the messenger and the tremendous secret was not in sight. He rejoined Lillian and they sought to fight back a subtle sense of fear. After another long wait Thorwald stepped to the telephone.

SPIES SEIZE THE FORMULA.

His face had turned an ashen pallor when he again faced his sister. "The police have just learned that the automobile was held up by thugs and the messenger kidnapped," he groaned. Then his face brightened. "The formula will do them no good without the key," he said.

"I was thinking of that," replied Lillian shrewdly. "But can't you see what their next step will be? They will attack us here in the hope of finding the key."

"You're right, and if I know those scoundrels, Brack and Dagram, they will stop short of nothing. They know their government wants that formula at any cost. Better run along, sis. I am going to call help, and when those scoundrels show up we'll give them the fight of their lives."

Lillian would have preferred to remain, but Thorwald led her from the room. He then called a secret service man to his assistance, armed the butler, turned the lights low, and the three men stationed themselves before a window through which Thorwald surmised the thugs would attempt to enter.

THORWALD FOILS PLOT OF SPIES.

The waiting proved tedious. Thorwald was beginning to wonder whether they had been mistaken in the belief that the foreign government spies would attempt burglary in order to get the key to the formula. Then soft, furtive footsteps were heard outside. The three men raised their revolvers. There was a sound like that of a jimmy being pried against the window. Another moment, and the window was raised noiselessly. A head protruded, a body wriggled through the aperture, and before he had glimpsed the revolvers leveled at his head the man had entered the room. He was followed by another. At a sharp command from Thorwald they threw up their hands.

The men were handcuffed, and after Thorwald had assured himself that their disguises concealed neither Brack nor Dagram, he whispered something to the secret service man and, with revolver cocked, hurried from the room. Peering around the corner of the house he perceived a short distance down the block, an automobile whose motors were whirring in readiness for an abrupt start.

"I'll wager our old friend is in there," he murmured as he crept toward the car. "He's too cowardly to face a little danger, so he's waiting at a safe distance while his hirelings do the work."

Shielded by the thick shadows, he approached the car, crept up beside it, dealt the chauffeur a stunning blow and thrust his revolver in the face of the man seated in the tonneau.

"Get out!" he ordered. "And keep your hands up!"

A man shuffled from the car.

"Why, Brack!" cried Thorwald in mock surprise. "I just had a hunch you might be here and came out to offer you the hospitality of our home. Don't be bashful, Brack. Step right along."

THE KEY PROVES TO BE A MYSTERY.

Brack ground a curse between his teeth and walked in the direction indicated. Thorwald emphasizing his invitation with a revolver whose aim never faltered. When they entered the room the secret service man promptly slapped a pair of handcuffs about his wrists.

"We've had our eyes on you for some time," he said, as he searched the prisoner. "Some of us have been pretty thoroughly convinced that you are a spy in the service of a foreign government, though we have no scruples against drawing a salary from Uncle Sam. Let's see? I wonder what this is."

He held a large manila envelope to the light. "You thought somebody would pay you a cool million for this, didn't you?" He handed the envelope to Thorwald. "Now you come along with me. Before we say where else we want you to show me where you have that messenger locked up."

Brack's shifty eyes flashed impotent hate. Presently two detectives entered and the bonds and Brack was led away. Lillian and Thorwald looked with awed eyes at the envelope, which had already been opened, and Thorwald extracted two sheets of paper.

One of them was blank, while on the other was penciled a dozen names of bottles. Thorwald and his sister stared at the sheet with perplexed eyes.

"No wonder those spies couldn't figure it out," muttered Thorwald. "Let's see what the key has to say about it."

OLD INVENTOR'S IDEA A PUZZLER.

They unlocked the old inventor's desk and Thorwald gave a start of surprise when in a drawer he found, not a sheet of written instructions, but a key, a real metal key, to which was attached a label bearing the inscription. "Burn the blank sheet of paper."

"What could father have meant by that?" questioned Lillian, perplexed. Thorwald lighted a cigarette and scrutinized the blank sheet carefully. The instruction to burn it seemed—well, absurd. Could it have been true, as some people had maintained, that his father during the last years of his life had been only a demented genius—that the great invention was only a dream?

In an absent-minded way he had permitted his cigarette to touch the blank sheet. In an instant the paper flared into coiling flames.

"Look!" cried the girl, and both stared in fascination at the sheet. The flames had traced a curious design on the paper, shaping the outlines of bottles similar to those on the sheet Thorwald surmised the things would attempt to enter.

Cicotte Signs For Big Salary

CHICAGO, March 12.—Eddie Cicotte, pitcher for the Chicago Americans, has signed a new contract "at one of the largest salaries paid a pitcher in the American league," according to a message received here from Sacramento, where the White Sox were today. Cicotte has been a holdout.

Eleven big league players have telegraphed President Gilmore asking for a chance to join the Federals, according to a dispatch from Shreveport, La. Among them are four of the Boston Americans, and players on the Chicago Federal team are quoted as saying they are Wagner, Lewis, Collins and Leonard. It was understood the Federal league refused to accede to Wagner's demands, which were for $7,500 a year. Collins' reported terms may be accepted, it was said, and if so he will be secured for the Brooklyn team.

The Importance of Properly Housing Your Little Chicks

IT is useless for a person to hatch off a large number of little chicks and not be prepared to take care of them after they are hatched, as many people are now doing, neglecting this important part of the things that will bring success. By all means before your little chicks are hatched have your brooders ready for them. They should be dry and placed under sheds or in a house where you can attend to them without getting out in the weather. The same thing should be done with hens that carry little chicks. A good dry room or roomy coops should be provided for your hens and chickens. Usually through March and April we have lots of rainy weather and unless you are prepared to take care of your little chicks and keep them dry and out of the weather you can not possibly raise a large per cent or them.

It is not so much the number of chickens a person hatches, as it is the number they raise. This is usually where the greatest loss comes in the poultry business, is in losing the little chicks.

Often people will allow little chicks to stay in brooders too crowded and get weak almost before you know it. Watch closely before this time comes divide them and give them sufficient space and room to avoid a loss at this particular time.

Above all things, do not allow the old hens to have their liberty with a lot of little chicks. They will run them to death or weaken their constitutions during the first few weeks of their life if they are given their liberty. A large vacant room with a good dry floor where they can get the sun can shine in freely is one of the best places that a brooder or a hen and chickens can be kept in. By placing a coating of dry coarse sand over the floor, and then covering the floor with fine cut alfalfa hay a person can keep forty to one hundred chicks in a room of this kind and usually raise a majority of them.

It is surprising how much faster little chicks will grow and what a large per cent can be raised and saved if they are properly cared for during the first six weeks of their life.

Another important thing, when little chicks are hatched with hens they should be thoroughly dusted with good insect-powder and kept free from insects. Insects will sap the life out of little chicks, cause them to droop and die and not grow about as fast as any drawback that can happen to them, and one should watch closely and see that the little ones are free from insects.

During the next two weeks will be the main season for hatching and raising little chicks in this section of country. Your year's work practically depends on what you do during the next two months, and everyone should leave no stone unturned to give the little ones every opportunity possible in starting them.

It is an easy matter to raise to maturity chicks that are hatched after they are past six weeks to two months old provided you have them where they will be protected from rats, mice, thieves, hawks and such things, and every brood of chickens should be so protected.

One of the cheapest and best arrangements that can be had for an ordinary hen and chicks is a large dry goods box 2 feet by 4 feet, or 4 feet by 4 feet square. By placing a piece of tar paper over the top of this box, using an ordinary window sash for the front which should be hinged to the box so that it can be opened and shut, and six inches to one foot space covered with wire on the side of the box, a coop or house of this kind makes a splendid place for a hen and little chicks. They can be shut up easily at night, and kept up during bad weather, and when they are weaned they will be use to roosting in a house this kind and a big loss can easily be prevented at weaning time.

Yours very truly,

(To Be Continued.)

QUESTIONS ASKED AND ANSWERED.

QUESTION.

Harrison, Ga.

I have been thinking of planting several acres to sweet potatoes this year and am up a tree as to how is the best way to market them. In fact, I have never had much experience in work of this kind and come to you to get help. Would you mind to help me? Please advise me the best way to market my product, and if me the names of some good dealers.

Would you also advise me what is the best fertilizer to use and also how much to the acre? Is barnyard manure good, and how to use it?

Thanking you very kindly for your information, I am,

C. L. W.

ANSWER.

The best way to market sweet potatoes is to plant enough to ship in carload lots to the east, such as the Cincinnati, Washington, Philadelphia and Chicago markets for $1.25 to $2.50 per bushel for good sound sweet potatoes from September until April.

The southern farmers have in the growing of this one product a great fortune, and where a community is located to distribute them there would be no trouble to easily get $1.50 per bushel for all the sweet potatoes any community could grow. Cincinnati alone could easily use five carloads per day at an average of $1.50 per bushel.

Throughout entire south Georgia from 300 to 500 bushels of sweet potatoes can be produced per acre. The yellow yams of medium size, such as Nancy Hall, are good sellers and good keepers, and it would pay any community for a dozen or more men to plant one or two acres in sweet potatoes and send one of their live, wide-awake men to an eastern market to handle their products on arrival.

Commercial fertilizers are better to be used in the growing of all potatoes than the barnyard manure. Land that has been planted in grain, then in peas, will make an ideal place for the growing of potatoes, by using 1,000 to 2,000 pounds of commercial fertilizer per acre. Smooth potatoes and a heavy crop can usually be depended on. Potatoes planted in brown in a crop of peas a mixture of 600 pounds of acid phosphate, 200 pounds sulphate of potash and 400 pounds of cotton seed meal would make a suitable fertilizer for potatoes where a pea crop had preceded the planting of potatoes. If corn or cotton had been on the land previously it would be best to use a larger amount of cotton seed meal.

There is no money through the entire southern states for the farmers to grow both Irish and sweet potatoes as a side issue to cotton farming, and every one-horse farmer in the country should plant at least one or two acres of potatoes every year. And, by getting those interested in this of these large or three cars a week from any community you can well afford to select the best one in your section and send him to market to handle your products. Last year in October at Washington ordinary sweet potatoes were bringing $2.50 to $3 per bushel. On the Atlanta market they were also sale at 60 cents and 70 cents per bushel. With this difference in price there is certainly an opportunity for our people to coin a lot of money if they will study and handle the potato industry in our country.

FOR SALE—REAL ESTATE

PEACHTREE STREET HOMES

WE HAVE secured a number of very handsome Peachtree street homes for sale that range in price from $18,000 up.

All classes of Peachtree street homes are represented among our listings. There are places to be had that will make magnificent homes for four or five years. After that, the usual Peachtree street values will assert themselves to your advantage.

On the other hand, further out, we have places that will be homes for years to come.

If you are in the market for a Peachtree street home, we can show you quite a number of very desirable ones, at the right prices.

FORREST & GEORGE ADAIR

LOAN AGENTS NEW ENGAND MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO.

FOR SALE—REAL ESTATE

When five thousand dollar per foot retail frontage entirely surrounds a twelve hundred dollar per foot lot, and is already within 90 feet, it won't be long before the $1,200 lot will catch up in value with its higher priced neighbor.

SOUTH BROAD for years has been impossible as a retail shopping street, but the produce men have taken their onions and cabbage to other fields; the only hindrance to Broad street's property is cleaned away; the difference is already apparent. J. M. High company have an entrance and display on Broad; Kress has an expanse of show windows and entrances on Broad. The new Lisen Store at the corner of Alabama, and all between, other Whitehall merchants have only to open a Broad street entrance to make Broad street a retail shopping street. The department stores are ALREADY ON BROAD STREET. Just watch them all open entrances now to catch both street's trade.

Certainly two locations on Whitehall cannot serve all the future growth of Atlanta. What more natural place for expansion of the shopping district can one imagine than Broad street.

We believe the 28x75-foot lot on South Broad street near Mitchell, at only $30,000, on easy terms, is the best purchase we have run across in months.

Just suppose you could pick up a lot like this on Whitehall, same location at this price. The same factors that made Whitehall's values are absolutely certain to exist on Broad street and that before very long.

An investment like this is the "salt of the earth." Buy and pack away for your children like most of the Whitehall owners have.

$30,000 on terms.

Dunlap Property at 409 Peachtree Street Again Changes Hands – Edgewood Avenue, West End Park and Other Small Sales – Flynn Heirs Incorporate and Transfer Viaduct Property to Their Company – Idle Freight Cars and Realty

No. 409 Peachtree street, which is known as the Dunlap property, has again changed hands—the third or fourth time this season.

W. R. Brown, of Fort Valley, is the latest purchaser. He took the property at a valuation of $90,000, or $1,500 a front foot, giving as part payment a vacant lot he recently bought on Poplar street, 20x60, opposite the postoffice, which was valued at $35,000.

The Dunlap property consists of a two-story residence on a lot 60x200. It is on the east side of Peachtree street, between the intersection of Alexander and Pine streets, and adjoins the property of St. Luke's church.

REAL ESTATE SALES.

Several small sales of fair importance were announced on Thursday, with the promise of more to come during the week.

Miss Eva Miller, of the Edwin P. Ansley agency, and Tom Swift, of Porter & Swift, have sold for an investor to Edwin R. Haas a vacant lot, 60x92, on the south side of Edgewood avenue, east of Daniel street, for $5,000, or $100 a front foot.

It was Miss Miller and E. B. Moore, of the Porter & Swift agency, who sold for Charles S. Mobley to W. H. Allen a lot 75x85, with railroad frontage, on Whitehall street, south of Stewart avenue, annnounced of which was made recently. The consideration was $225 a front foot.

E. L. Harling has sold for a customer to A. L. Slaton a house and lot at No. 31 Stokes avenue, in West End park, for $6,000. The house is a story and a half bungalow on a lot 50x200.

MEIRS INCORPORATE.

The heirs who own the Steinem-Emery building, on Peachtree street at the viaduct, with frontage also on Broad street, have transferred the property to a corporation known as the Flynn Realty company. The nominal consideration was $600,000.

This is not a sale of the property, but an incorporation to bring about certain legal requirements. The same people still own the property.

When certain leases on it expire, the company purposes to make extensive improvements. R. R. Otis, of Otis & Holliday, is in charge of the property.

DECREASE IN IDLE CARS.

General business conditions have almost a direct influence on real estate, and in this connection it is interesting to note from the Journal of Commerce the following in regard to the decrease of idle cars:

"A further decrease of 43,145 cars was reported in the railroad equipment yesterday by the American Railway association from the fortnight ending March 1. The net surplus now stands at 155,907, against 197,052 on February 14, 209,678 on February 1 and 214,385 on the high point of the recent movement, on January 15. A year ago the total surplus was 37,775."

DEAD LABORER IDENTIFIED AS MAN MISSING FOR YEARS

Prosperous Chicago Lawyer Disappeared From Ship on Trip With Bride in 1902

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, March 12.—While on his way to Milwaukee on a lake steamer, with his bride of but a few weeks, Horace Greely Clarke, a prosperous Chicago lawyer and board of trade operator, mysteriously disappeared June 28, 1902. A country-wide search for him was unsuccessful and at last it was decided he had fallen from the steamer and had been drowned.

Yesterday the body of a railroad section laborer in a morgue at Cudahy, Wis. was identified as that of Horace Greely Clarke. Clarke's sister, a Mrs. Carson, of Iowa City, made the identification. An accidental overdose of a drug had caused the man's death, physicians said.

Mrs. Carson could learn little about her brother's strange disappearance. Seemingly he had lost his memory. He had been in various parts of Wisconsin for years and was known at Cudahy as "Harry Harrie." For years the man had been a drug user and was found dead in bed at a rooming house a week ago.

However, nothing could be learned regarding his disappearance from the lake steamer twelve years ago. At the time of his disappearance Clarke was believed to have left the boat when it docked at Racine, Wis., but after a search of weeks he was reported dead. "Harry Harrie's" statement to friends that he had a sister living in Iowa City led to the identification of his body yesterday.

EXPLORER TO HUNT FOR LOST SHIP IN ICE FIELDS

Karluk Provisioned for Five Years—Blown Away, Leaving Scientists Ashore

SEATTLE, Wash., March 12.—A news dispatch from Dawson, Yukon territory, says Vilhjalmar Stefansson, commander-in-chief of the Canadian Arctic exploration expedition, has gone back to Herschel Island, off the mouth of the Mackenzie river, and intends to start out immediately in search of the exploring ship Karluk. The Karluk was blown from the vicinity of Point Barrow, Alaska, into the Arctic ice field during a blizzard last September, leaving Stefansson and three other scientists ashore.

The Karluk is provisioned for five years, and Stefansson seems to think she will be carried across the pole by ice and come out north of Greenland.

Agent of Shipbuilding Co. Testifies to Agreement Made With President of Concern

WASHINGTON, March 12.—That he contracted with former Rear Admiral Bowles, president of the Fore River Shipbuilding company, for $1,000 and a contingent fee of $4,000 to work for toll exemptions for American coastwise ships in the Panama canal act, was charged today by Clarence W. De Knight before the senate lobby committee.

For his services in behalf of the Fore River Shipbuilding company before the senate canal committee, which wrote the Panama canal law was under consideration, De Knight testified he was paid only the $1,000, despite the fact that the tolls exemption was included in the bill.

He demanded the $4,000 contingent fee from President Bowles after the bill was passed, but did not receive it.

"Did your contract call for a contingency whereby the bill was to include a provision whereby the government was to contract for ships in case the toll exemption was granted?" asked Senator Reed.

NEVER MADE THREATS.

"No, I don't think so," said De Knight. "I don't exactly remember the contingency. I was to get the $4,000 if the bill went through a certain way. Anyway, I know Admiral Bowles' company did not build the ships, so I never threatened to sue.

"The matter was dropped there and I am still retained by the company in connection with some claims cases."

The committee demanded that De Knight produce his contract with Bowles, which the witness said he would do later.

De Knight had been subpoenaed to produce files of his correspondence in relation to the legislation, but refused, but he urged that he wanted to consult counsel as to whether their production would jeopardize confidential relations between attorney and client. The committee will insist on production of the correspondence.

De Knight said he knew of no organization to fight for the repeal of the toll exemption clause, and denied he had written any letetrs of warning to shipbuilding companies relating to it. Asked if he knew of any fund being raised to fight the repeal, De Knight averred he did not.

De Knight charged there was animus behind an effort to discredit him. He added that the animus arose from his discharge of a woman stenographer, whose name is coupled with a newspaper man in a further charge.

Senator Overman produced a copy of a contract in which retired volunteer officers and enlisted men of Civil war service agreed to pay De Knight 5% of any increase in pension they might receive should a bill for such increases now before congress be passed.

De Knight testified he had not drawn such a contract and promised to inform the committee how many of such contracts had been signed by officers now in the government service.

SCHEDULE OF REVISED EXPRESS RATES READY

J. P. Webster, Railroad Commission Expert, Issued Letters to All Express Cos.

The state railroad commission, through J. P. Webster, its rate expert, has just completed a schedule of revised express rates, rules and classification, proposed to be made effective on Georgia intrastate traffic, and April 14 has been set as the date upon which the commission will verbally or in writing from the carriers and parties interested in the proposed revision. Criticisms and suggestions are invited by the commission.

Mr. Webster has, by direction of the railroad commission, addressed a circular letter to the express companies and the shipping public, which follows in part:

"The commission has felt for some time that its present classification, rates, rules, etc., were in many respects obsolete, incomplete, discriminatory and inadequate in their application to express traffic conditions of today.

"For the past two years it has been engaged in an extensive investigation and study of the entire subject and the proposed revision embodies the results and tentative conclusions, following this investigation.

"The proposed revision contemplates harmonization and adoption of our classification and rates to traffic conditions as they exist today, and the simplification and making more intelligible to carriers and shippers the rules under which they are applicable.

"In the practical working out of this plan there have been necessary rate increases and decreases, which, taken altogether fairly compensate each other.

"Under the present plan of constructing express rates in Georgia, the railroad company is the transportation unit, and provision is made that where express shipments handled by one express company are transported over more than one railroad, additional charges shall be allowed. Under the proposed method, the express company is the transportation unit, and rates are fixed for each express company, regardless of the number of roads necessary for shipments to be transported over in order to reach destination.

"It is to be noted that only three tariffs are provided, tariff A, tariff B and tariff D; tariff A represents merchandise shipments; tariff B represents food, drink, etc.; tariff D the per ounce rate fixed for small packages. Tariff B rates are 75 per cent of tariff A rates, and bears the same fixed relationship to tariff A rates as prescribed by the interstate commerce commission in its recent general express order. Tariff E carried in our present schedules has been eliminated from the revised tariff, for the reason it applies only on dressed poultry, fresh fish, butter and sausage; these commodities are properly ratable as food, and as will be noted from the attached, are to be transported under tariff B rates, the same as prescribed for all other food articles. Sectional rates established for the benefit of manufacturers and large dealers are discontinued; such tariff regulations and rules are apparently discriminatory and there does not appear to exist any good reason for their continuance.

"The rates proposed represent on tariff A and B, under the graduate table, 1,162 advances, averaging 4.8 cents per package, while the reductions number 3,330, averaging 11.9 cents per package."

UNUSUAL CASE IS BEING FOUGHT HARD IN COURT

T. J. Stovall, Leading Business Man, Accused of Robbery by Dr. O. C. McElroy

One of the oddest trials ever held in Atlanta is being conducted in superior court before Judge Ben H. Hill.

T. J. Stovall, a wealthy and prominent business man, manager of the Southern Fixture and Cabinet company, 248 Lee street, is charged with robbing Dr. O. C. McElroy, a druggist, in his store at 196 East Georgia avenue, of $70 cash, after beating McElroy into unconsciousness.

McElroy claims Stovall was blind drunk at the time. Stovall, on the stand, told the court and jury that not only was he not drunk, but he was not in McElroy's drug store on the night in question.

"I never knew of the affair until I was startled the next day to read in the papers that I had held up and robbed McElroy," said Stovall, on the witness stand.

"People tell me that McElroy is a dope fiend; if so, he's not responsible, and I feel nothing but pity for him. After McElroy paid me some money due on notes which he had signed for fittings for the store on June 8, 1912, I have never entered the store from that day to this," said Stovall.

The case took up the greater part of Wednesday morning in superior court and it is not expected to be finished until Friday.

Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey, prosecutor for the state, said during the trial that he expected to prove, by witnesses, that Stovall, in fits of drunkenness, committed other acts worse than beating and robbing Dr. McElroy. Both the state and the defense put many character witnesses on the stand.

Ben J. Conyers is Stovall's attorney.

PROTEST EXTRA FARE ON BUCKHEAD TROLLEY LINE

Patrons Petition Railroad Commission to Compel Discontinuance of 5c Charge

Patrons of the Buckhead line of the Georgia Railway and Power company have petitioned the state railroad commission for an order to compel the company to discontinue collecting an extra 5-cent fare between Buckhead and Brookhaven.

This petition, which was filed by Mrs. John J. Woodside, is signed by Dr. Albert H. Bruce, Dillard Jacobs, Mrs. Cunningham and George P. Ferguson, and says it represents the wishes of 182 other patrons of the Buckhead line.

It is pointed out in the petition that the street car company charges a fare of five cents on this line for passengers between Buckhead and the city of Atlanta, giving between these points the same accommodations in the way of transfers, etc., as on other lines of its system, but that beyond Buckhead an extra fare for 5 cents per passenger each way is charged.

It is contended that the extra charge of 5 cents is discriminatory and unreasonable and the fact is cited that "the company operates other lines, notably the Hapeville and College Park lines, that extend as far from the center of Atlanta as the Buckhead to Brookhaven line, for a fare of 5 cents."

The following paragraph appears in the petition:

"Petitioners are advised and believe that said extension from Buckhead to the county line was built largely by subscription of people living along said line, the Georgia Railway and Electric company building said line, claiming that the same would not be a profitable line. The amount subscribed, petitioners are advised and believe, was $25,000. Said line was built along the crade of Peachtree road and is not over two miles."

A date will be set by the commission for a public hearing on the petition.

It was in May, 1911, that the railroad commission passed favorably on a petition from the Georgia Railway and Electric company for the right to charge the extra fare. In that decision the commission said in part:

"Upon hearing the above stated application, it being made to appear that a passenger fare of 5 cents per passenger for transportation over the proposed extension of said Peachtree and Buckhead line from Buckhead to the DeKalb county line, or any part thereof, in view of the sparseness of the population in the territory contiguous thereto, the volume of probable traffic, and the estimated cost of said extension and operation, is, at this time and under existing conditions, a reasonable and just charge.

GRAND OPERA SEASON TICKETS GOING RAPIDLY

Sale Several Thousand Dollars Ahead of Record for Same Period in 1913

Officials of the Musical Festival association announced Thursday that the sale of season tickets for grand opera is several thousand dollars ahead of what it was at this time last year and that indications point to the largest attendance in the history of opera in Atlanta.

It must not be inferred from this, however, that there is a scarcity of good seats. The auditorium-armory has a normal seating capacity of more than 6,000, and even when the sale is double what it is now, there will still be plenty of good seats left in all parts of the house. However patrons who desire any particular location will be on the safest side by making their reservations as soon as possible.

The out-of-town orders and inquiries have been particularly heavy and are increasing in number daily.

One important and advantageous change is announced in the program for the week, following telegraphic consultation between Mr. Gatti and Colonel Peel. The new Victor Herbert opera, "Madeleine," which has not been a success in New York, will be taken off the Saturday night bill and "Cavalleria Rusticana" will be put in its place. In all other respects the program remains as announced, and this change was made in accordance with the wishes of the Atlanta association.

TO TOUR SOUTH AND CENTRAL AMERICA

NEW YORK, March 12.—Dr. Henry Bard, head of the Pan-American divisions of the peace society financed by the Carnegie endowment, announced today that a delegation to study intellectual and cultural development in South and Central American republics would sail from New York for Brazil on May 30.

The party will be composed of college and university professors and will devote ten weeks to the tour. The object is to further international peace by drawing closer the cultural and intellectual relations between this country and the southern republics.

RESULTS OF COLDS

To Neglect a Cold in the Beginning is to Run a Pretty Big Risk.

When the Liver Gets Lazy the Blood Thickens and the System Becomes Easily Susceptible to Cold and Disease.

A cold is directly traceable to an inactive liver. The liver finds its efforts overcome and food remains in the stomach or bowels. The head gets hot, the feet cold and the bowels constipated. Right then and there is the danger point. The bowels must be kept open. The system must be relieved of congestion.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is the greatest known relief. It is better than calomel. It will rejuvenate the liver, send the blood racing through the veins, dispel the congestion and make you feel as if life is worth living.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT acts quickly and mildly, and never gripes or nauseates. Don't take an inferior substitute. Some stores may offer other preparations upon which they make larger profits, often similar in name, but very different in action. JACOBS' LIVER SALT is 25c for a large jar, at druggists, or sent by mail (postpaid). Jacobs' Pharmacy.—(Advt.)

ATLANTA DRUGGIST HAS VALUABLE AGENCY

The Jacobs' Pharmacy company has the Atlanta agency for the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka, the remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. This simple remedy has powerful action and drains such surprising amounts of old matter from the body that JUST ONE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation almost IMMEDIATELY. The QUICK action of Adler-i-ka is astonishing.—(Advt.)
